Troops Keep Order and Wounded Children Are Rushed to Safety; Kin of Pope Is Victim.

Milan, April 12.—(AP)—Terrorists placed a powerful bomb in the base of one of the electric light lamp posts lining the Piazza Giulio Cesare, and it exploded with terrific force this morning, killing at least 15 persons and injuring forty or more about the time King Victor Emanuel was due to pass the spot.

Thousands had gathered to salute the king on his way to the fair grounds to inaugurate an exposition.

The explosion tore the lamp post to pieces and sent huge chunks of iron in all directions.

King Is Delayed.
The king, who had arrived at Milan half an hour before, was somewhat delayed in proceeding to the fair grounds. The enthusiastic populace crowded the streets and the squares. It was due to the slowness of the royal procession that the king escaped being in the very midst of the disaster.

The first automobiles containing the sovereign, the members of his suite and accompanying municipal authorities, were still moving slowly along the Corso Vercelli, before anything was known of the calamity, and then ambulances and litters were sent at the Sempione gate. Word of the explosion was kept from the king until he entered the fair grounds, a few minutes after 10 o'clock.

Power Is Increased.
The base of the lamp post where the bomb had been placed had a circumference of about seven or eight feet. Therefore the explosive power of the bomb was increased many fold. When it burst fragments of metal were scattered over a radius of an eighth of a mile. A huge hole was ripped in the pavement for a distance of a hundred or more feet, and great crevices were opened in the square.

A woman looking out of a window of a house near by was struck by a flying metal splinter and killed instantly. A little girl, who was known to have been clinging to the lamp post near the top, in order to get a better view of the procession, was blown to pieces. All that could be found of her was a little hand.

Troops Save Children.
The courage and coolness of the soldiers of the Fifth Alpine regiment lining the route are highly praised by eyewitnesses. Blinded by smoke and dust and some of them wounded, their first thought was to seek the little children, hundreds of them, who had been squirming about seeking points of vantage, and rush them out of danger.

One of the Alpine was killed outright and at least six of them were badly injured and removed to a hospital. One of the latter, whose name was on the list as Pietro Ratti, is Continued on Page 12, Column 6

Farm Relief Bill Passes in Senate By 53-to-23 Vote

VIADUCT MEETING SET FOR MONDAY

Details of County's Participation in Financing of Bridges To Be Worked Out.

Members of the bridge committee of city council, the bond commission, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Walter B. Stewart, chairman of Fulton county commission and of the finance committee of the commission, will meet Monday afternoon in joint session to discuss the county's participation in financing of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, it was announced Thursday by Captain George M. Hope, chairman of the county finance body.

In the meantime Alexander MacDougall, president of the MacDougall Construction company, to whom city council and the mayor have agreed to award the contract for construction of the improvements, began making preparations to start the work just as soon as details of the contract are worked out and the proper papers are signed.

Predictions were that actual work on the structures can be begun within the next week.

Paul Etheridge, a member of the commission and of the finance committee of that body, Wednesday afternoon offered a resolution at an adjourned meeting of the board to the effect that the county would contribute $388,000 towards erecting the structures as full consideration of the county's part in the construction.

It developed, however, that Commissioner Edwin Johnson and several other members of the commission were unwilling to take any hasty step on the assumption that the county had entered into a moral agreement with the city to contribute $500,000 towards the bridges.

Mr. Etheridge was out of the city Thursday and will not return until the latter part of the week. This precludes a conference before Monday, Captain Hope said.

City officials probably will ask the county to contribute $250,000 next year and another $250,000 next year, on the assumption that the county will eliminate the Ivy street Central avenue offset and consequential actual damages will exceed the estimates already made and will therefore consume a larger amount of the money allocated for viaduct purposes than was at first anticipated.

BIRGER GRANTED STAY TO APRIL 17 ON INSANITY PLEA

Benton, Ill., April 12.—(AP)—A stay of execution until Tuesday, April 17, on an insanity plea was granted Charles Birger by Circuit Judge Charles E. Miller here tonight. Birger was sentenced to hang at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

In Face of Veto Threat Solons Show Power To Override Coolidge Opposi- tion to Plan.

Washington, April 12.—(AP)—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, carrying features which caused President Coolidge to veto it a year ago, was passed tonight by the senate and sent to the house, which also is expected to approve it at an early date.

The vote was 53 to 23, as compared to the 47 to 39 vote at the last session. While this is more than the two-thirds majority which would be required to override a veto it was regarded as doubtful that with the full membership present a two-thirds majority could be obtained.

President Coolidge has left no doubt in the minds of congressional leaders that the bill still carries features objectionable to him, principally the equalization fee by which it is proposed to raise funds to take care of the surplus crops so as to maintain prices of farm products at a higher level.

A direct show down of senate sentiment on the equalization fee was provided by an amendment by Senator Sackett, republican, Kentucky, proposing elimination of that provision of the bill. The proposal was rejected, 46 to 31, after two hours of vigorous debate during which Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, in charge of the bill made an eloquent plea for enactment of the bill in the form the representatives of farmers' organizations had requested.

Is Political Waterloo.
Before coming to the final vote on the bill itself, the senate rejected, 64 to 5, a substitute by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, which would have provided for a direct government subsidy up to $600,000,000 to meet losses incurred by farmers in marketing their surplus crops.

The five supporting this measure were Blaine, Borah and Brookhart, republicans, and Bayard and Bleasie, democrats. This vote came while a number of senators were absent from the chamber and as they came straggling in several voted for the Brookhart proposal only to change their votes later after they discovered their error. This caused laughter in the chamber and gallery and led Senator Borah to arise and announce that he did not change his vote.

Since congressional action on the McNary-Haugen bill admitted to playing its part in the pre-convention presidential campaigns, the chief point of interest for political observers was how the presidential candidates lined up on the issue. The republican candidates split three and two, Curtis, of Kansas; Watson, of Indiana, and Norris, of Nebraska, voting for the bill, and Borah, of Idaho, and Goff, of West Virginia, voting against it. That was the way they lined up a year ago.

Many Shift Positions.
Senator Fess, of Ohio, who is to sound the keynote at the Kansas City convention, and who has been prominent in the movement to draft Coolidge, voted against the bill. None of the democratic presidential candidates were present, but it was announced Continued on Page 12, Column 1

FILLING STATION MANAGER HELD UP, ROBBED OF $75

Forced to open his safe at the point of a pistol, J. A. Tucker, 1161 Gordon street, manager of a Texas filling station on the corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and Ponce de Leon street, was robbed of $75 Thursday night by two unidentified white men, according to a report received at the police station.

Tucker described the men as being about 25 years of age and wearing gray suits and caps. Call Officers E. W. Ginn and S. B. McGarrity investigated.

MAN SHOVS WIFE UNDER FAST TRAIN THEN FOLLOWS HER

(By Special Cable to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Paris, April 12.—Theodore Crigue wanted to kill his wife, then commit suicide, but he did not have nerve enough to pull the trigger of his gun. So, in full sight of hundreds of subway riders at the crowded opera station, he pushed his wife before a speeding train, then jumped himself. Ten shop girls fainting as the wheels ground their bodies to bits.

GIRL STOWAWAYS TAKEN FROM FIVE U. S. DESTROYERS

School Child, 15, States Sailor Enticed Her To Hide Self on Ship; Others Found Later.

Key West, Fla., April 12.—(AP)—Five young women who sought adventure on the high seas via naval destroyers as stowaways, tonight were back on dry land destined to return to "home ports" by more conventional means, while one of Uncle Sam's gobs was under arrest.

Presence of the five women aboard the vessels accustomed to only male passengers and crews were disclosed when a general search of destroyers in southern waters was ordered by Secretary of Navy Wilbur today on request of the St. Petersburg, Fla., chief of police that a girl from there was reported hidden aboard the destroyer Billingsley.

Four Put Ashore.
Four young women were put ashore here from the U. S. S. Concord, when they were discovered during the general search. They gave their names as Billy Lacer, Rose McGuire, Flossie Rice and Ramilda Avary and said they "shipped" aboard the destroyer at New Orleans to return to their homes at Philadelphia.

The fifth, Cynthia Albert Poole, 15-year-old school girl, of St. Petersburg, was put ashore at Mayport, Fla., from the destroyer Billingsley. Her father, Joseph Poole, has asked Secretary Wilbur to investigate the matter and determine how a girl could stowaway aboard a United States destroyer and get as far as his daughter did without being discovered.

It was Cynthia's becoming an unlisted passenger of the Billingsley that brought about the search that disclosed four other girls also passengers not on a destroyer's muster roll.

Confides in Chum.
She confided in a chum before her adventure and the chum told her she could stowaway on the wire to Secretary Wilbur.

After being discovered hidden in a small boat on board the Billingsley, she told the committee that she had been persuaded to stowaway by a sailor named Kramer whom she met at a soft drink stand in St. Petersburg.

EVEN GRAND OPERA HAS COMICAL SIDE

Old-Time Fans "Reminisce" and Recall Ludi- crous Mishaps That Have Occasionally Happened.

At the approach of the eighteenth annual season of grand opera in Atlanta some old-time opera fans began "reminiscing" Thursday at the offices of the Atlanta Music Festival association and recalled that even grand opera, with all the smoothness of its machinery, often has its "mishaps" and some of them are of a ludicrous nature.

Laughter, tears, curses in many languages and laments of despair in high-pitched voices have been evoked by curious accidents in opera, and even the Metropolitan Opera company has not been spared occasional experiences of this kind, in spite of the fact that the proficiency of its stage managers and scene shifters is as famous as the vocal talent of its stars.

Tragic pictures could be painted of an impresario ruined, a popular idol demolished, a brilliant career halted by reason of some humiliating or mirth-creating accident upon the stage. But if now and then some such mishap has, indeed, entailed serious consequences, far more frequently the only result has been an exhilarating merriment, which has only increased the popularity of those involved.

Grand opera has thrived on unexpected comedy. "All the world loves a laugh," sings Flagstaff in the ten-voice fugue that ends Verdi's octogonarian work, and although humorous grand opera never has fared as well as that which is lachrymose or gory, laughter in unexpected places has done its part in enlivening operatic performances.

Because of the intricate mechanism of the operatic theater, stage managers should be killed in the attack.

Prosecution Nears End in Sinclair's Trial for Bribery

EDUCATORS HEAR WELLS AND MIMS

Fulton School Head Stresses Importance of Organization; Ritchie Will Head Association.

Importance of better organization and more efficient administration of the various school systems in the state, in order to strengthen the weakness in the primary and elementary grades, was the keynote of the Georgia Education association convention closed Thursday night by Jere A. Wells, Fulton county superintendent, president of the association, at the opening session in the auditorium.

"The weakest place in practically all of the school systems of the state is during the early training period," Mr. Wells said. "This weakness is caused by short terms, poorly prepared and poorly paid teachers, poor organization and lax administration as well as inadequate funds."

Although the main sessions of the convention were opened Thursday night and will last through Saturday, several of the allied organizations opened their meetings several days ago. Various departmental meetings will be held today in connection with the main body of sessions.

Mr. Wells and Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English at Vanderbilt university, were the principal speakers at Thursday night's session. Dr. Mims spoke on the subject of idealism in education.

Ritchie Is Nominated.
Dean H. B. Ritchie, of the Georgia State Teachers' college, Athens, Thursday night was nominated for president of the Georgia Education association, to succeed Jere A. Wells, Fulton county superintendent. Dean Ritchie is without opposition for the post, but a contest is scheduled for the post of vice president, both Jack Dempsey, principal of the Jackson High school, and Superintendent J. E. Purks, of Cedar town, being nominated. R. I. Knox, superintendent at Hartwell, who is seriously ill at Davis-Fletcher sanatorium, was nominated for treasurer. Superintendent M. R. Little, Jr., of Louisville, was renominated for director. The secretaryship will be filled by the board of directors.

MARGARET WILSON ILL, HER MARRIAGE TO DUKE DELAYED

London, April 12.—(AP)—The marriage of Prince Charles, Duke de Nemours and son of the Duchess of Vendome, to Margaret Wilson, of Washington, D. C., has been postponed. The Evening News said.

A dispensation to permit him to marry a Protestant had been temporarily withheld, the paper understood.

His marriage has been postponed until early in May because of his fiancée's health," said the duke tonight. "She is not yet convalescent from her recent operation for appendicitis. When she is stronger it will be time to consider formalities. There is no question as to my obtaining a dispensation."

OFFICERS LOSING MEN IN LYNCHINGS MAY BE JAILED

Washington, April 12.—(AP)—A new anti-lynching bill which would make it a felony to take part in a mob attack or for a state officer to permit a prisoner to be taken from him, was introduced today by Representative Berger, socialist, Wisconsin. The measure also would penalize the county in which the mob attack occurred.

Participation in a mob attack would be punishable by imprisonment for from one to five years or a fine of $5,000, or both. An officer who failed to protect a prisoner could be punished by imprisonment of from two to ten years or a fine of not more than $10,000, or both.

A county in which a homicide or injury was committed as the result of such an attack would be penalized $10,000, with the sum to be used by the person injured or by his family should he be killed in the attack.

Ten Witnesses Called as Government Speeds Case; Three Written Statements Offered.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—Accelerating its previous rapid pace the government took testimony from ten witnesses and read the previous testimony from three others today as it turned into the home stretch of its case against Harry F. Sinclair on the charge that he conspired with Albert B. Fall to lease Teapot Dome.

Owen J. Roberts, special counsel, then announced that tomorrow night would see the windup of the prosecution, with a likelihood that the defense would begin by Monday. While the central theme today dealt with the alleged secrecy which shrouded the Teapot negotiations, testimony tomorrow is expected to take up Fall's famous Russian trip as Sinclair's agent.

Witness Is Ill.
Frank E. Kistler, of Denver, chairman of the board of the Producers and Refiners company, who was summoned as a government witness, failed to appear on account of illness. His testimony prior to the trial of the Fall-Sinclair case last October was read to the jury.

This followed information from Kistler's physician in New York that the oil operator was unable to appear to testify to that effect if required. Roberts had said that a bench warrant might be issued for Kistler if such an offer were not forthcoming. Counsel for both sides agreed to the reading of Kistler's statement, which dealt primarily with efforts he made to lease sections of the Teapot Dome territory.

BY UNITED NEWS.
John C. Shaffer, Chicago publisher, testified that at Fall's suggestion Sinclair promised him 400 acres of the 9,321 in the Teapot Dome reserve. Shaffer said he received this promise Continued on Page 12, Column 1

MORROW MUST DIE FOR KILLING PERRY

Second Man Faces Chair in Bank Murder; Jury Is Deadlocked in Wom- an's Case.

Brunswick, Ga., April 12.—(AP)—Malcolm Morrow, of Jacksonville, Fla., was tonight convicted of murder in connection with the killing of C. A. Perry, cashier of the State bank of Kingsland. The verdict was brought in by a jury in the Glynn superior court late tonight.

Morrow, who had told the jury today that it was he who fired the shots that produced the death of the Camden county cashier, received the verdict without emotion. He well knew what the result would be and never changed his expression when he was sentenced to die in the electric chair at Milledgeville on June 1. His aged mother, however, lost complete control of herself and had to be carried from the courtroom.

Homer Simpson, who was convicted on the same charge Tuesday, was likewise sentenced to be electrocuted on June 1. A motion for a new trial was filed tonight in both cases.

Mrs. Mamie Lee Todd, charged with being an accessory before and after the fact of Perry's murder, did not know her fate at a late hour Thursday night. The jury which had taken her case under consideration at 10:15 o'clock Thursday morning, had not reported a verdict at the time the Morrow conviction was brought in. At a late hour it was understood that the Todd jury was hopelessly deadlocked.

Morrow's Story.
An educated man with a well modulated voice, Morrow, who is now a cripple as the result of his automobile accident, then told the full story, and the only defense made for himself was that there was never a plot to kill Perry, that he fired upon the cashier only after he had advanced upon him with a knife and that he insisted,

14,169 PERSONS WATCH CRACKERS WIN OPENER, 6-3

Ideal Weather Greeted King Baseball in Atlanta; Bob Jones and Others Per- form Unusual Features.

BY WHITNER CARY.
After a careful and purely impersonal view of the afternoon's proceedings as seen from the confines of the press box and after a hasty glance at a scoreboard which tells in brief and impressive fashion that the Atlanta Crackers took a fall out of the Chattanooga Lookouts by the count of 6 to 3, one is forced to the conclusion that the opening day game at Mr. Spiller's pasture of joy and swat, from an artistic, financial pennant percentage and gastronomic standpoint, was a highly successful affair.

The fact that the weather was extremely kind and scored a great personal victory for Baron C. F. von Herrmann, that all the pre-game features, such as martial music, flag raising, Bobby Jones losing golf balls over the center field barricade, presence of many dignitaries and Miss Helen Menken casting the first ball, went off smoothly and in perfect order, attests to the artistic success of the occasion. The solid fact that very few seats in any of the stands were devoid of occupants and that the turnstiles clicked melodiously on no less than 14,169 separate and distinct occasions gives eloquent proof as to the financial angle. The glorious manner in which the Crackers bats awoke from their sleeping sickness of the last two days in Nashville and sent the luckless Lookouts to the showers minus a ball game, speaks volumes for the pennant percentage success of the occasion, while the satisfied, well-fed and placid look on the faces of the cash customers as they wended their way homeward after leaving a trail of 14,169 empty peanut bags and the same impressive number of popcorn containers and dead pop bottles, for the wake hours of the gastronomic success of the afternoon.

Resurrection.
Although some cynic has said that to see one opening game is to see them all, there are a few who may not hold to this opinion so suppose you tarry a short while and let's live over the afternoon that gave the Crackers their first introduction to the won column.

GERMAN SPINNERS TO VISIT ATLANTA

Much Importance Attached to Coming of Textile Leaders Next Wednes- day.

Elaborate plans for the entertainment of a group of distinguished German cotton spinners on their visit to Atlanta next Wednesday were announced Thursday by George A. Dunagin, district manager of the division of cotton marketing, United States department of agriculture.

The visitors will arrive at 5:30 o'clock in the morning over the Southern railway, at the Terminal station, and will be met by a local committee. A breakfast will be given at the Biltmore hotel, and a luncheon at the chamber of commerce. The party will be taken on visits to the Georgia Tech textile school, leading textile mills, Candler yarnhouse and other points of interest.

Invitations are being sent to leading cotton factors, mill executives, trade association secretaries, railroad officials, cotton compress and warehouse executives and members of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club to meet the cotton spinners.

On Tour of South.
The party arrived in New York several days ago, and will leave Washington Sunday, stopping in Greensboro Monday and Charlotte Tuesday. Following the visit here the spinners will leave at 6:05 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for New Orleans. The entire tour of the southern states is expected to require a month's time.

Members of the party are: Hans Adolf, head of a firm Beckmann, Heinz Brandt, Theodor Golsman, Hermann Heert, Wilhelm Hageboeck, Paul Jackson, August Kuempers, Director of the German Textile Association, Bernhard Levy, Hermann Leuz, Heinrich Pfedermenges, George Schmidt, Louis Schoeller, Theodor Schwartz and Carl Weyl, all from Germany, and Helmut Thorey, of

PLANE IS UNSEEN AFTER DEPARTURE FROM IRISH COAST

Scheduled To Pass Har- bor Grace, N. F., Shortly After Midnight, But No Engine Heard.

VESSELS REPORT ROUGH SEA LANE

Early Morning Brings Clearing Skies to Route; New York Prepares To Receive Bremen.

New York, April 13.—(Friday)—(AP)—A chill pall of silence enveloped the fate of the Junker plane Bremen and her crew of three at the beginning of the second day since she took off from Baldonnel field, Ireland.

"No report from any source," was the only reply available for anxious inquirers from shortly after 2 o'clock, eastern standard time, yesterday morning, when the silver-hued ship flickered for a moment in the view of Irish civic guards at Slysne Head, most westerly point of Connaught.

None of the 21 ships plowing the north Atlantic route had reported sighting the Bremen, although radio stations up and down the coast were on the alert throughout yesterday and last night.

A report, however, discounted, was received from Shoal Harbor, in Trinity Bay, that two persons there heard a plane at 8:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, but saw nothing owing to thick weather.

Due at 12:30 A. M.
The monoplane Bremen hopped off from Baldonnel field at 5:38 a. m. Thursday for New York.

A special calculation made by the Associated Press by the Baldonnel air authorities figured that Captain Hermann Koehl, German ace, and Colonel James Fitzmaurice, Irish aviator, co-pilots of the Bremen, should see the lights of Newfoundland at 5:30 a. m., Irish time, or 12:30 a. m. eastern American time, and they pictured these two in the cockpit giving the news to Baron Gunther von Huenefeldt, promoter of the flight, who sits behind them in the cabin pumping oil for the motor.

The fact that the plane had not been reported since it cleared the west coast of Ireland two hours after the start, caused no anxiety, Baldonnel authorities were much pleased with weather conditions and were putting their faith in the powerful motor of the plane.

Bucks West Wind.
They said that if an goes well the flyers should reach Mitchell field on Long Island at 6:30 a. m. New York time tomorrow. This, however, allows four hours for errors in navigation, so the Bremen may land any time between 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. The calculations were based on an average speed of 95 miles an hour. The weather charts indicated that through the day the plane had to buck a tea mile wind but at the part of the Atlantic where they were supposed

HAROLD HAMMOND MUST DIE IN CHAIR

The supreme court Thursday affirmed a death sentence imposed in Fulton superior court on Harold Hammond, following his conviction of killing Mrs. Lottie Belle Ingram and her 14-month-old baby on February 4, 1927. In denying a motion for a new trial the supreme court ruled that Hammond must die in the electric chair, the decision of the judges in the case being unanimous.

It was contended in the motion for a new trial that Hammond had not been permitted to call the jury after the verdict had been rendered. The supreme court held that the defendant has the right to do so in any case where the jury has been dispersed. If the defendant waits until the sentence is being imposed he has lost such right, according to the court.

Mrs. Ingram was killed when she was struck on the head with a flat iron. The child was killed by strangulation, the slayer using a towel for this purpose. Bernie Ingram, a cotton mill worker, husband of the dead woman, came home from work early one morning and found his wife and child dead. Several suspects were arrested but were later released.

Hammond was taken into custody on a charge of murder several weeks later. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence and on certain admissions made in the case. Judge John Wood, of the Blue Ridge circuit, presided at the trial.

LOST TUG FOUND OFF FLORIDA; CREW REPORTED SAVED

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 12.—(AP) The missing tug boat Lender, which left Port Tampa a week ago today for Port Ingle with a cargo of fuel oil, and had not been heard from since, was found off Port Ingle this morning, according to advices received here from the Florida Power corporation at that point.

The captain and crew were safe, although weary by exposure and lack of food. The Lender burned out her bearings last Friday and after anchoring her tow in the waters north of Tarpon Springs, she had drifted until picked up today.

According to information received from the power officials the boat drifted in the general direction of its original destination and anchored in the vicinity of the lights house there.

Personnel Association To See Demonstration Of Health Methods

Demonstrations of the methods used by various large corporations throughout the country in guarding the health of their employees will be given by George H. Phillips, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, at the meeting of the Personnel Association at 8 o'clock this afternoon in the tea room of the M. Rich & Bros. Co.

"Health in Industry" will be the topic for discussion of the executives of the several Atlanta business houses which are members of the association. Officers will be elected at the meeting.

AIR MAIL CHIEF TO ARRIVE TODAY AT CANDLER FIELD

Arrangements for an air mail transfer station and other details of the new service at Candler field will be made by E. B. Wadsworth, superintendent of the air mail division of the postoffice department, who will arrive in Atlanta this morning, according to announcement Thursday by Postmaster E. K. Large.

The transfer station will separate and classify mail arriving at and departing from Candler field on the New York and New Orleans routes, both of which are scheduled to Open May 1.

Postmaster Large Thursday said that he has noticed a substantial increase in interest in air mail in Atlanta since the operation of the first Atlanta-Miami air mail service. Mr. Large said that he is receiving hundreds of telephone calls and letters in connection with the service from citizens of this section.

The Pitsmair Aviation Co., Inc., of Philadelphia, has the Atlanta-New York contract, and the St. Tammany Gulf Coast Air Ways, Inc., has the New Orleans contract.

COUPLE IS FREED OF CAUSING RIOT IN MINE STRIKE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 12.—(AP)—Powers Haggood and his wife, Mary Donovan Haggood, were acquitted today of the charge of inciting to riot. A verdict of not guilty was directed by Judge Benjamin R. Jones, after police witnesses had testified there was no disorder in evidence when the pair were arrested at Pittston some time ago. Haggood and his wife were arrested for trying to hold a mass meeting to enlist support for three men charged with killing a district official of the United Mine Workers in the recent feud of miners at Pittston. Meetings had been banned by the mayor.

WOMEN PRESBYTERIANS CLOSE SESSION TODAY

Dr. T. W. Simpson, Presbyterian minister of Brunswick, will speak, reports will be made, and officers will be installed today at the closing session of the twenty-first annual meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Atlanta presbytery at the Druid Hills Presbyterian church.

The officers elected Thursday are: Mrs. J. A. Craig, Atlanta, president; Mrs. W. C. Humphries, Griffin, vice president; Mrs. W. R. Armstrong, Atlanta, secretary; Mrs. W. M. Edwards, Atlanta, historian; Miss Sue R. Haley, Atlanta, secretary of Sunday school extension work; and Miss Margaret Hoyt, Atlanta, secretary of the young people's work.

More than 450 delegates representing 25 counties attended the session Thursday. Wade H. Boggs, pastor of the Druid Hills church; E. G. Abbott, president of the Presbyterian synod of Georgia; and Dr. J. Spruile Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, were among those who appeared on the program.

A novel pageant presented by Miss Charlotte Persinger based on religious literature, was one of the features. The following committees were appointed: Mrs. E. M. Copeland and Mrs. C. E. Betts, publicity; Mrs. Carl Walker and Mrs. Puckett, auditing; Mrs. A. Bergstrom, Mrs. Robert H. and Mrs. P. V. Christian, credentials; Mrs. E. P. Taisley and Mrs. Vahl, registration; Mrs. W. B. Davis, Mrs. Whitehead and Mrs. H. R. Todd, efficiency; Mrs. W. C. Elrod, Mrs. Persons and Mrs. Schab, place of meeting.

PLANE SQUADRON STOPS ON FLIGHT IN SOUTH CAROLINA

LEGION POST INDORSES UNIVERSAL DRAFT ACT

Charlotte, N. C., April 12.—(AP)—Declaring they had rather face the horrors of war than see American ideals trampled, members of the Legion Post No. 1 of the American Legion auxiliary today made public a resolution they had voted wholeheartedly endorsing the universal draft bill now before congress.

After pointing out the horrors of the world war, members of the auxiliary said:

"We still would face these horrors again rather than see the ideals and principles of America submerged by foreign bodies of propaganda."

BondCommission ToDecideSchool, Sewer Contracts

When members of the Atlanta bond commission meet at 11 o'clock this morning, they will consider school, sewer, city hall and waterworks projects valued at nearly $1,500,000. Funds will be supplied from the 1926 bond issue.

General and electrical contracts for three junior high schools total more than $800,000; new schools for Grant Park, Morningside and Haywood-State and replacements for Edgewood Avenue and Whiteford Avenue Elementary schools approximate $325,000; the topographical map costs will be approximately $43,500; the new water main will cost $7,500, and the city hall excavation contract award is recommended by the Nichols Contracting company at $8,500.

If the bond commission approves the projects they will all go to the regular meeting of city council Monday for sanction, and then to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

Brittain, president of Tech, Thursday, who has just returned from a meeting of the fourth corps area R. O. T. C. in Tusculoo, Ala. Dr. Brittain explains that the abolishment of the air units are due to a change in the policy of the United States war department.

Convicted of Larceny, Woman Is Given Year As Alleged Shop-Lifter

Mrs. C. G. West, who said she was from South Carolina, Thursday was convicted in Fulton superior court on a larceny charge in connection with the theft of $38.34 worth of wearing apparel from a downtown department store. She was sentenced to a year on the state farm at Milledgeville by Judge John D. Humphries.

In her statement to Assistant Solicitor Ed Stephens, Mrs. West said she was left stranded here by a couple en route by automobile to Mexico for a cargo of narcotics after they had robbed her of $50 and her personal effects.

An indictment charging forgery to Mrs. West, in connection with her possession of a check bearing the forged signature of a narcotic agent here, was dismissed.

NEW WHIPPET SIX COST LOW RECORD

Toledo, Ohio, April 12.—(Special.) Prices on the new Whippet Six, which are the lowest ever reached by any manufacturer of six-cylinder motor cars, were announced here by John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland. The five-passenger coach will sell for $895, bringing this model $50 below that of the nearest low-priced six.

Other models include a coupe at $895; a four-door sedan at $745; a touring at $615, and roadster at $585. All prices are below those of any light six of equivalent body type. Mr. Willys said the power plant of the new Whippet Six is equipped with a seven-bearing crankshaft, being the first low-priced six to incorporate this advanced feature. This latest move follows closely upon the recent price cut on the four-cylinder Whippet and the Willys-Knight Standard Six price cut announced a few days ago. Whippet Four production has been brought up to an average of 1,100 daily.

The new Whippet Six is looked upon as a strong bid by Willys-Overland for quantity production in the light six division. Mr. Willys said that Whippet Six production is entirely independent of Whippet Four production, which he indicated would be built in steadily increasing volume to meet the heaviest buying demand in the company's history.

GEORGIA DEALERS HAIL NEW WHIPPET.

Coincident with announcement of the new Whippet Six, one of the most enthusiastic dealer gatherings ever held in Atlanta took place Thursday in the auditorium of the LeRoux Motor company, distributor for the state of Georgia for the Whippet and Willys-Overland line of cars. At the termination of the meeting Thursday afternoon the assembled dealers, who came from all parts of the state, drove away 100 of the new motor car creations.

"The dealers were highly enthusiastic over the prospect faced by the new Whippet Six," Mr. LeRoux said. "They were impressed with its beauty and luxury as well as by the sterling qualities of its power plant and general mechanical make-up in spite of its radically low price. They tested the new car thoroughly while here, being given demonstrations covering every phase of its road requirements, and they were unanimous in predicting that the new Whippet Six will meet with immediate and widespread popularity."

The dealer meeting was featured by a luncheon at noon held at the Atlanta Athletic club, with Mr. LeRoux presiding, along with E. R. Parker, zone manager for Willys-Knight, Inc. A number of dealers made short talks on the outlook for the Willys and Whippet line of cars.

Georgia School Exhibits Show Students' Genius

Down at the auditorium—or, more properly, next door to the auditorium in the annex—there is this week one of the most fascinating exhibits of the genius of the human family ever shown in Atlanta. It is here primarily for the edification of delegates to the Georgia Education association convention, now in session in the city, but it is well worth the time of any Atlanta who are interested by really excellent work done by the young of the species.

The displays show work in the arts and crafts, in the higher arts, in wood and tapestry and clay and tile and metal and textiles, of students in the public schools of a group of Georgia cities. It includes the work of all grades, from the first grades of the grammar schools, through junior and senior high schools. There are also included exhibits of work done by students of some of the normal schools and, in one case, an exhibit not from a publicly supported school—Wesleyan college for young women at Macon.

The collection, which is shown in such profusion that practically all the space in the annex is occupied, is in charge of Miss Charlotte Smith, supervisor of art in the Atlanta public schools. Miss Annie May Holliday, of Athens, is chairman of the art department in the Georgia Education association.

Exhibits are seen from practically all schools in the Atlanta system. These are under supervision of Miss Smith. Then there is a splendid exhibit from the junior and senior high schools in Savannah, shown by Miss Mary and Miss Lila Cabanis, respectively.

Miss Rosette Rivers is presenting the display from Wesleyan. The agricultural college at Athens has sent an exhibit in charge of Miss Mildred Ledford. Miss Ruth Carpenter brings examples of the work done at the Georgia State Woman's college, at Valdosta, while Miss Holliday is responsible for the exhibit from the Georgia State Teachers' college at Athens. Miss Kinsey, art teacher in the public schools at Carleide, has brought a splendid showing from that city.

The exhibition will be continued all this week and to those who are not conversant with the splendid work being done in this line in the schools it should prove a revelation.

DR. E. M. POTEAT WILL SPEAK TODAY TO CLASSICAL BODY

Dr. E. M. Poteat, former president of Furman university, will speak before the second convention of the Classical Association of Georgia at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, in the Sunday school room of Trinity Methodist church. The association will meet again at 6 o'clock tonight for a dinner at the Wincoff hotel.

Other speakers before the association will include Professor William Hooper, of the Latin department, University of Georgia; I. J. Gaines and William Cole Jones, Dr. C. E. Boyd, of the department of Greek, Emory university, is president of the association.

Amateur Orators Coached On Delivery and Gestures

BY WILLIAM O. KEY,
Contest Editor.

Editor's note: This is the second article on the technique of famous orators, published for the benefit of entrants in the Fifth National Oratorical contest, being sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution. It bears on the style and mode of delivery of Mirabeau.

When the throne of the French monarchy was tottering and when all else seemed hopeless, Queen Marie Antoinette, as much as she feared and hated him, sent for M. le Comte Riquetti de Mirabeau with overtures for his aid in curbing the rabid clamor of the revolutionists.

Mirabeau countered with suggestions for the formation of a ministry, and the queen intimated her assent. One particular thing was outstanding at the audience of Mirabeau with the queen. That was his bold request that Marie Antoinette permit him to kiss her hand at the conclusion of their talk. This she did.

On the next day the news was all over Paris. Pamphleteers and lampoonists were shouting their wares: "The great treachery of the Count of Mirabeau!"

In the national assembly M. Barnave was accusing the revolutionary leader of treason. Well knowing that his life hung in the balance as well as the curbing of the rabid clamor of the rebellious leaders, the count made his way into the tumultuous assembly and approached the speaker's chair, and amidst the point of interest shifts from his personal fortune to the eternal forces behind the universe.

Mirabeau's Magic.

Mounting the speaker's platform he shouted dramatically:

"I needed not this lesson to teach me how short the distance from the capital to the Tarpeian rock!"

The angry roar instantly was quieted as if by magic. Mirabeau continued:

"And me, too—me, but the other day they would have borne in triumph; and now they cry in the streets: 'The great treason of the Count of Mirabeau!'"

"But the man who battles for reason, for country, does not so easily admit that he is vanquished. He has the consciousness that he deserves what he shall country, and, above all, that he is well able to serve her; he disdains a vain celebrity but prizes true glory above the successes of the day; he would speak the truth, and labor for the public weal independently of the fluctuations of popular opinion, such a man carries in his own breast the recompense of his services, the solace of his pains, the reward of his dangers."

"The harvest he looks for, the destiny, the only destiny, to which he aspires—is that of his loved one, and for that he is content to trust to time—to time, that incorruptible judge who dispenses justice to all."

Again the tumultuous clamor of honor may well be benefited by a close study of the language of the dauntless Mirabeau. In that short speech he has embodied the qualities of an assemblage mighty concessions that averted wholesale bloodshed for some time.

Value of Pulse.

The youthful orator may be sure that Mirabeau did not stand flat-footed, his hands limp at his sides and deliver that masterpiece of declamation. It should require little imagination to picture him as he should, his eyes glaring at the threatening comrades: "And me, too—me, but the other day they would have borne in triumph," etc.

This is one of the most important things in the department of an orator. Those who stand ill at ease, those who pace nervously about the stage, or toy with their clothing or twiddle their fingers in the midst of what should be a heroic utterance, are doomed to disappointment in the verdict of the judges.

Handolph Leigh, national director of the contest, brings out this point emphatically in his criticisms of previous contents. With little practice the younger orator should be able soon to master his gestures and gesticulations; his inflection and his spirit; his nerve and his confidence.

In the former article dealing with the simplicity of the Indian chief, Logan, it was pointed out as a yardstick to amateur speakers; and the same may be said in the case of Mirabeau. There is, in his famous speech quoted in the foregoing, hardly a word that could not be understood by the youngest high school pupil, and yet they are so used as to lend an entrancing hypnotic quality to his utterance.

The next article will deal with oratory of a different nature. The first two have been more or less defensive in their utterance, and his spirited, succeeding article will present a speech of a glowing laudatory nature—that of Henry W. Grady, former editor of The Atlanta Constitution, made many years ago at Boston.

HOPE TO DEFEAT AL SMITH FADES

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 12.—(United News.)—Although southern politicians opposed to Smith are not yet ready to admit defeat openly, they have begun to say privately that they see little likelihood of preventing his nomination now.

Their morale has suffered from the victories which Smith workers claim in Iowa and Oklahoma. Of the two the Oklahoma victory is regarded as the more significant because Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, was expected to get the delegation. His friends are still claiming it. However, Oklahoma politicians here opposed to Smith, concede the full delegation to him under the unit rule.

A Roman Catholic was elected democratic national committeeman and the Smith workers are admitted to be in full control. This in a state that is not only dry but in which the Klan has been active in past years. The pivotal test for Smith will be California, where in the primary May 1 he is opposed by Senator Walsh, of Montana, behind whom William G. McAdoo is attempting to rally his old 1924 organization and by Senator Reed, of Missouri. If the result is decisively in favor of Smith his nomination will be regarded by most democratic leaders as inevitable, some southern senators said today.

No Organized Opposition.

Even pending that test none of them see such a strong drift that they have little expectation it will be stopped. One dry southern senator who insists he will never be reconciled to Smith as his personal candidate, said that the nomination seemed probable. He said it had been a surprise to him and he explained it on several grounds.

First, he said, there had been no real intensive organized and financed campaign against Smith. The opposition to him therefore had not been made effective in the selection of delegates. The dry could not agree upon any one candidate to lead the opposition and the favorite son strategy which was adopted as an alternative had been unsuccessful, in his opinion.

Though he is one of the most uncompromising drys in the senate, he takes some consolation in believing that Smith's progress is not wet progress. He says that Smith forces have not pressed the wet issue as had been expected some months ago, and he predicted that if Smith is nominated his first act would be to make a strong pledge to enforce prohibition. He also believes that religion had not played the part that some had expected.

Many Seek Band Wagon.

His reactions are significant in that they are believed to be typical of many southern anti-Smith democrats.

Another anti-Smith democrat from a border state took much the same view. Also they both took the view that much of Smith's strength is due to the eagerness of professional politicians to get federal jobs on the assumption that Smith would be more likely to be elected. One expressed regret that members of his party should hold this cynical view but he said it existed nevertheless. Neither felt that Smith's strength among active politicians was fully reflected by equal popularity among southern voters. One said that promises of ample campaign funds from New York have had their effect.

Such views are by no means unanimously held. There will be many who will fight to the end against Smith.

A given political situation is composed of so many vague, impalpable factors that it is never possible to know it to absolutely known quantities. But so far as all elements can be judged by experienced politicians and observers, the majority here decided that Smith is in a very close race to the nomination if, indeed, it is not already practically settled.

B. O. COSBY HEADS
CHEMICAL FRAT

B. O. Cosby, of Auburn, a student of chemistry at Emory university, was recently named president of Phi Alpha, honorary chemical fraternity.

Frank Gresham, Prattville, Ala., was elected vice president, and E. N. Osborne, Canby, secretary-treasurer.

Cosby and Gresham are seniors at Emory and Osborne is a member of the junior class. The fraternity recognizes its rapid growth in the study of chemistry and in the chemical laboratory.

Emory Honor Roll
Increases to 77;
4 Girls Included

Seventy-seven students, including four girls, made the honor roll at Emory university during the winter quarter out of a student body of a little over eleven hundred undergraduates, registrars' record shows. The girls were Miss Marie Goodyear, Miss Ella Mae Hollingsworth, Mrs. M. M. Cope and Miss Emma Levy.

Fourteen men failed to pass their courses, the figures show, and were dropped from the roll. But the increase in honor roll students for this quarter was unusually large, the number increasing from 63 to 77.

The number of students placed on probation had a slight fall from the previous quarter, 63 being suspended from extra-curricular activities for the spring quarter. The honor grade students were determined upon the number of credit points received. A grade of "A" counts six credit points and a man must make 14 points to be placed on the honor roll.

F. N. Wilder, an Atlanta student, was the only student to make four "A" grades during the winter quarter. Nine students, however, made as many as three "A" grades.

Boy Drowns.

Washington, April 12.—John W. Lang, Jr., 16, high school student, was drowned today when he and a companion, Robert Emery, Fort Hunt, Va., attempted to go through rapids in the Potomac river in a canoe. Emery clung to the overturned canoe and was rescued.

New Piggly Wiggly Store Holds Open House Tonight

C. J. ZELLNER,
Store Manager.

The thirty-first store and eighteenth market in the Atlanta Piggly Wiggly grocery chain tonight will hold open house reception to residents in the Brookwood section on the eve of their opening for business Saturday morning at 1705 Peachtree road, at the Brookwood station.

From 7:30 to 9 o'clock tonight the store will be open for inspection and all who call will be served refreshments. Mr. Zellner, local manager of Piggly Wiggly stores, announced Thursday. Music will be rendered by a popular orchestra and all callers will be at liberty to inspect the large and handsome store and its comprehensive stock of fresh merchandise and new equipment.

C. J. Zellner will be manager of the new store and J. V. Anthony will be in charge of the market. Both are widely experienced in their lines and have many friends and patrons who will be interested in their new location.

EMORY STUDENTS
NAME OFFICIALS
AT POLLS TODAY

Students in all schools of Emory university will go to the polls today to take part in the annual spring elections. Six editors are to be elected in the publications field and class and school officers for both liberal arts and business administrations.

Most of the men are unopposed for class and school officers in the absence of activity on the part of a second party this year. Campus politics heretofore have been run on the two-party system, but only one party made nominations this year.

A political rally was held Thursday night to stimulate interest in the elections.

Girl Kidnaped
By Atlanta Man,
Police Are Told

Atlanta police received a request from East Point Thursday night to assist the police there in the search for Wilhelmina Mewhether, 15-year-old girl, who is thought to have been kidnaped from her home in East Point.

Her father informed police that he believed his daughter had been kidnaped by a man who is well known in Atlanta police circles, and said that he would prosecute him on kidnapping charges in the event of his capture.

Wilhelmina is described as weighing about 125 pounds, five feet five inches tall, with fair complexion, blue eyes, and dark bobbed hair.

ALLEGED SLAYER
IS IDENTIFIED
BY LITTLE GIRL

Identified by a small girl after he had almost convinced officers he was not the man they wanted, Woodie McCarty was arrested at 233 Fair street, S. E. Thursday and sent to Covington where he is charged with shooting an officer while on a fishing party a year ago.

McCarty had denied his identity and Police Officers W. B. Martin, S. E. Shynard, T. H. Lenthers and W. C. Morris report that they were about to leave convinced that he was telling the truth when a little girl who lived nearby told them that the man was McCarty.

McCarty was arrested on a warrant from Covington and officers here were unable to learn the name of the officer he is charged with shooting.

Don't Be "Skinny" and Scrawny!
Build up Weight in 3 Weeks with New Combination of YEAST and IRON—or Pay Nothing
Pleasant
Because Tasteless

"I Gained 10 Pounds"

"For over a year I had no energy or ambition. My complexion was sallow, I could not sleep at night. I felt as if I were a shadow of my former self. After taking one treatment of IRONIZED YEAST I feel like a new man. My complexion has cleared up wonderfully. I have gained 10 pounds, and I am full of energy."—(Mrs. M. B. Chicago, Ill.)

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST, in a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood-building properties of vegetable iron with yeast.

New Complexion For You

People ask—what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms a sallow, lifeless, faded complexion into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Eyes renew the sparkle of youth. Hollows fill out.

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one—weight-building YEAST and strengthening IRON. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value.

Only when Yeast is ironized in this way is it more effective for building up the body.

That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. So get your generous test treatment—nice, tasty tablets in a handy bottle. No nasty, pasty taste. Do not cause gas or bloating. Safe for everybody—containing no harmful drugs.

Try It on "Money-Back" Offer

Go to any drug store and get a full size treatment. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with effects, ask for your money back. It will be refunded immediately. If inconvenient to buy from drugstore, send $1.00 to the IRONIZED YEAST CO., Atlanta, Ga., Desk 208.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, poor complexion, and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having weight increased to normal—col. ILLINOIS WAITS FOR NEW SENATOR

J. V. ANTHONY,
Market Manager.

Chicago, April 12.—(AP)—Whether Governor Len Small would make an appointment to fill Illinois' seat in the United States senate vacant since the death of Senator William B. McKinley tonight became the most interesting subject of primary after-math discussion.

Colonel Frank L. Smith, of Dwight, twice refused a seat because of opposition to his campaign fund by public utility men, was defeated along with the other leaders of the Small-Thompson-Crowe ticket. That left the way clear for a governor's appointee to go to Washington for the next seven months to give Illinois her full senate quota.

It had been Colonel Smith's fond hope to go back to Washington with a second mandate from the voters obtained in a primary and election in which no action could be questioned. His first trip to Washington was his appointment of Governor Small.

Statement Unavailable.

The governor could not be reached tonight concerning the possible appointment of a successor to Colonel Smith.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association issued a statement urging Governor Small to appoint a United States senator and asserted its board of directors would take formal action tomorrow upon the proposition.

Meanwhile the lead of Otis F. Gleason of Murphysboro, over Smith's seat, was 101,606 with a total of 1,258,993 votes reported in 5,987 of the state's 6,334 precincts.

The defeat of Governor Small's third term aspirations was recorded in this late tabulation: 6,115 precincts of 6,634—Small, 599,335; Emmerson, 976,235, a majority of 416,900.

Crowe Admits Defeat.

In Chicago, where the contest between Robert E. Crowe, second time incumbent, and Judge John A. Swan son, for Cook county state attorney was outstanding with undoubted influence throughout the state, Crowe finally acknowledged defeat as Swan son's margin crept towards 200,000.

Crowe sent Judge Swanson a message of "congratulations and best wishes."

There was considerable talk in Chicago today of investigation of an allegation that crime and politics had a close book-up and of frauds at the primary, but the only formal step was taken by the Chicago Bar association which authorized a committee of five of its leaders to investigate and report to the "proper authorities."

All Majorities Large.

With majorities ranging up to nearly 500,000 votes, these other republican candidates were nominated: Lieutenant governor, Fred E. Sterling; state auditor, Oscar Nelson; state treasurer, O. N. Custer; congressman-at-large, Mrs. Ruth Hannan McCormick and Henry R. Rathbone.

The name of Frank O. Lowden, the only one listed for presidential preference, received attention of 884,724 voters in 5,076 of the state's 6,334 precincts. President Coolidge's name was written in 2,675 times. The

ALBANY WILL OPPOSE DOUBLE AUTO TAXES

Albany, Ga., April 12.—(P)—Albany will join Atlanta and other cities in the movement to relieve themselves from buying state license tags for automobiles and paying the state gasoline tax of four cents a gallon. The city commission has authorized City Manager C. Q. Wright to attend a meeting called by Mayor I. N. Hagdale, of Atlanta, May 18, to consider proposed legislation to this end.

The movement to force municipalities to buy license tags was inaugurated here four years ago. The city, called upon by Sheriff O. F. Tarver of Dougherty county to buy tags for its automobiles, resisted payment and obtained an injunction to restrain the sheriff from collecting.

Man of Mystery Yet Unidentified At Waycross, Ga.

Waycross, Ga., April 12.—The body of N. W. McIntosh, 36, "man of mystery," is being held in a Waycross morgue today while officials of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, by whom McIntosh was employed as a telegraph operator, are following clues which are hoped to reveal his identity.

McIntosh died in a Waycross hospital last Saturday and efforts to locate relatives have proved futile. All that is known of the mystery man is that he was employed at McIntosh, a small station on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad between Waycross and Savannah. The fact that he is reported to have said before he died that he killed two men in Louisiana, following which he fled to Texas for safety, and the additional fact that he refused to tell anything concerning his home or relatives, has led to an interesting investigation.

The man of mystery had been in ill health for some time, and had made several trips to Waycross, where he was given medical attention in the relief hospital of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

Always he signed the hospital register without revealing any relations or facts concerning himself, hospital officials stated today. In the blanks where the names of closest relatives are supposed to be recorded, McIntosh wrote the word "none."

He had been employed by the Atlantic Coast Line for approximately 20 years, and about him have been woven many mysterious stories, whispered among the few employees of the road who have known him.

His body is being held awaiting orders from railroad authorities, no funeral arrangements having been made today.

FORMER MINISTER DRAWS PEN TERM FOR MAIL FRAUD

Valdosta, Ga., April 12.—(P)—T. B. Christian, former Baptist minister, was convicted in United States district court here today on a charge of using the mails to defraud, and sentenced to serve a year and a day in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Christian was alleged to have sent fake orders to commission houses which he represented and to have collected commissions on them.

Robert Cannon, charged with violation of the Mann act, drew the heaviest sentence at this term of court, receiving two years at the hands of Judge Bascom S. Deaver.

Darlington School To Observe Founders' Day at Rome Today

Rome, Ga., March 12.—(Special)—Founders' day will be observed Friday at Darlington School for Boys, according to an announcement made by C. H. Wilcox, president of the institution.

Dr. Shelton Phelps, director of graduate instruction at Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., will be the principal speaker. Dr. Phelps is one of the most prominent educators in the south.

Work of students of various classes will be exhibited and the visitors will be allowed to inspect the school.

Prominent visitors from a number of states will be guests of the school on Founders' day and all friends and patrons residing in Rome are cordially invited to be present.

BARRY WRIGHT HEADS 1928 ROME CHAMBER

Rome, Ga., April 12.—(Special)—Sounding a note of enthusiasm for the coming year, declaring it to be in prospect the greatest expansion year in the history of the city and predicting a population of 100,000 in 1940, Barry Wright, prominent Rome attorney, accepted the presidency of the chamber of commerce Tuesday night at a meeting attended by every member of the 1928 board of directors and all but two of the old directors.

Retiring President, Wilson M. Hardy presided at the meeting, which was held at the Hotel Armstrong.

Charges of neglect of duty were filed Thursday by Chief of Police James L. Beavers against Patrolmen S. W. Roper and H. L. Sexton. The charges will be heard by the police committee of council at the next meeting.

Based on an affidavit sworn to by J. W. Waters, the charges against Officer Roper are that he failed to inform the recorder that he had found pistols in the pockets of Waters and G. W. Jackson, who were arrested on disorderly conduct charges by Officers Roper and Sexton at Chestnut and Hill streets.

Cases against Jackson and Waters were dismissed when Officer Roper did not inform the recorder of the finding of the pistols, it was stated. Sexton is charged with failing to appear in court to testify in the case, thus allowing the defendants to be liberated.

Ocean Steamship Co. officials in city

F. R. Richardson, vice president and general manager, and G. R. Anger, general passenger agent of the Ocean Steamship company, of Savannah, both from New York, spent Thursday here on an inspection trip of southern connections of the Ocean Steamship company.

They conferred with officials in Atlanta, which city is one of the most important inland connections of the company, due to the fact that many Atlantans travel by water to New York and eastern points. Mr. Richardson said the company has made extensive preparations for traffic this year, believing that ocean voyages along the Atlantic coast will appeal to many people.

Radio, Telephoto, Plane Aid In Rushing New Styles Here

These sketches of gowns ordered from Paris by telephone and radio by the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company were sent from Paris to London by mail; radioed from London to New York, and telephotoed from New York to Atlanta in the newest feat of quick merchandising.

In order that milady of Atlanta may wear frocks of Parisian design to opera this year, the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company has invoked the aid of radio, telephoto, long distance telephone, airplane and steamer to clip days from the normal time required for arrival of new styles from the French city to "the Gate City of Dixie."

Two weeks ago Sam DuBose, merchandise manager of Chamberlin's, sat down at a telephone and, by aid of the newly-arranged phone-radio connection with Paris, placed a verbal order for a consignment of Parisian frocks with Charles Roditi & Sons in Paris, France, buyers for the Whitehall street department store.

The house of Roditi immediately had the models designed and sent sketches of them by plane to London. From that city they were radioed to New York and thence telephotoed to Atlanta. Approved by local store officials, the sketches were rushed to New York representatives of Chamberlin's, where the designs will be adapted to American costume-makers for less expensive frocks. Details of the New York models will be so varied as to assure Atlanta purchasers of the Parisian models of original costumes different from the less costly copies, according to Herbert Everett, Chamberlin's director of sales.

The Parisian models, which are being rushed to Chamberlin's, are made to specifications of the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company for street, afternoon and evening wear respectively. Paton features his new color, eggshell, in the evening frock of Georgette crepe. This model shows the bustle drapery pulled to the left hip—a newer line than placed in the back. Length of line is added by the V decolletage, and the inverted Y line on the bodice. This model, like the other two, has a slightly higher waist line. A fluttering shoulder bow is a feminine and very flattering finishing touch to a graceful frock for dancing.

The afternoon gown is a typical example of the new "slab-out" dress, which is the simplest form of afternoon dress, named in contrast to the still simpler "runabout" dress for street and shopping. Chanel develops this model in navy crepe Maroccan, points of interest being the lingerie touch given by white organdie at neck and sleeves, the higher waisting, sharply accented, bolero back falling to the closely moulded hip line and the deep folds in front that give the very new jutting silhouette.

In the street costume, Jean Regny presents an extremely wearable sports or "spectator" sports two-piece frock in sand-colored crepe, accented with green.

'Pearls of Life' Teaches Pupils Dental Health

Even a school play, written and presented with the object of teaching the importance of sound teeth, must have its heart interest, so the children who saw the presentation this week of "Pearls of Life" at the William A. Bass Junior High school were not surprised to see the dentist and his pretty girl patient become betrothed in the last act. Miss Mary Large, a daughter of Postmaster E. K. Large, played the leading role, while Kenneth Hamner was the dentist who wielded the forceps and won a bride by his skill.

The play, written and presented by pupils of the school, was presented this week before the Parent-Teacher association, and will be entered in a national competition for school plays. Leading roles were taken by Miss Large, Miss Gene Dodds, Ralph F. Berg and John Williamson.

The school drama was presented as a forerunner of "Mouth Health" week, which begins Monday, it is predicted by officials of the dental hygiene department that every school will be able to report "100 per cent perfect teeth" by the opening of the week.

Public meetings, special show-window displays, motion pictures in the schools and programs in every classroom will mark "Mouth Health" week, which is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher associations of the city. "Watch Your Teeth" is the slogan.

NEGLECT OF DUTY CHARGED BY CHIEF TO TWO OFFICERS

Charges of neglect of duty were filed Thursday by Chief of Police James L. Beavers against Patrolmen S. W. Roper and H. L. Sexton. The charges will be heard by the police committee of council at the next meeting.

Based on an affidavit sworn to by J. W. Waters, the charges against Officer Roper are that he failed to inform the recorder that he had found pistols in the pockets of Waters and G. W. KELVINATOR DEALERS END CONVENTION HERE

With a big banquet at the Georgian Terrace hotel Thursday night the one-day convention of southeastern distributors and dealers of the Kelvinator corporation came to a close after busy morning and afternoon technical sessions.

Earlier in the day the Kelvinator men heard their president, C. K. Woodbridge, of Detroit, predict that "the time is not far distant when the electric refrigerator will rival the automobile in volume of sales."

"The last five years have found electric refrigeration in a process of intensive development," said Mr. Woodbridge. "The Kelvinator corporation has carried on with the manufacture of a quality product. It has developed plants capable of producing machines under the most efficient methods and has built up a nationwide selling organization which is thoroughly equipped to educate an expectant public in the advantage, convenience and necessity of electric refrigeration."

Other speakers at the convention were J. M. Parnall, commercial sales engineer, of Detroit; Frank D. Beaton, sales promotion department, Detroit; H. H. Johnson, advertising department, Detroit; Franklin A. Bell,

YOUTH FORUM HOLDS MEETING TONIGHT

LOCUST GROVE SCHOOL HAS BEEN PURCHASED

Locust Grove, Ga., April 12.—(Special)—Locust Grove institute has been sold by the Georgia Baptist trustees to a group of educators from South Carolina. It is announced here today. The purchasers, it is reported, will invest approximately $75,000 in improvements to the plant of the school.

Reports also were that the buyers would construct a new auditorium, gymnasium and indoor swimming pool.

The Locust Grove institute was founded by B. J. W. Graham more than 30 years ago and has a splendid record. Dr. Claud Gray has been its president for about 30 years. It is understood that the new owners desire him to continue as head of the institute.

PEACHTREE ROAD CHURCH TO MEET IN NEW BUILDING

The congregation of the Peachtree Road Methodist church will move into the recently completed church building at the morning service Sunday. The Rev. T. H. Shackelford, pastor, will do the preaching.

Dr. W. L. Pierce, presiding elder of the North Atlanta district, will preach at the night service at 7:30 o'clock. Sunday school will be held at 9:30 o'clock, junior church at 11, and the Epworth league meeting will be at 6 o'clock.

The new church building was erected at a cost of $3,000 and is to be used as a temporary structure for two or three years until funds can be raised for a permanent building. This edifice will seat 222 people and is large enough to accommodate its present membership.

RULES FOR PILOTS TO BE DISCUSSED AT AIR CONFERENCE

Pilots operating from Candler field and Leo Wilson, federal inspector of this district, will meet with the aviation committee of city council at noon today at the city hall to discuss regulations regarding flying which will be offered in final form to city council Monday for adoption. Alderman William R. Hartsfield, of the third ward and chairman of the committee, announced Thursday.

The rules will prohibit stunt flying over the field or the city of Atlanta; prohibit operators taking passengers from the field for hire or for reward unless they are licensed pilots and will not permit licensed pilots to operate any machine except a government inspected and licensed one.

"Persia" was the subject of a talk given by Rev. Y. H. Shabazz, native of Persia, recently returned from a visit to that country, at the luncheon of the City club at Vaughn's restaurant Thursday. The "Reds" were declared victors over the "Blues" in an attendance contest.

Go to your druggist, ask for Black and White Ointment, use it according to directions and your skin troubles will quickly yield to its remarkable effects. It is pleasant to use, highly beneficial and scientifically safe.

For best results use Black and White Skin Soap with Black and White Ointment. All dealers sell them at small cost.

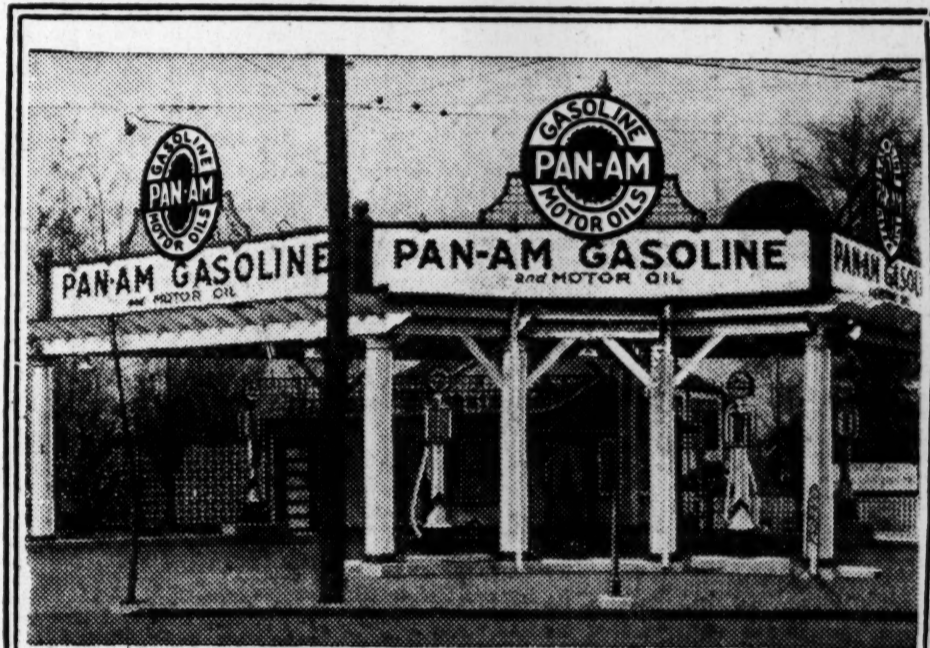

SAFE! {mile after mile} this tougher motor oil

YOU take no costly chances of burned out bearings and scored cylinders in your car when you use Pan-Am motor oil.

This safe oil was developed to give modern motors the extra protection they need because of higher speeds, increased engine heat. It is refined from paraffin base crudes that produce a tougher oil.

That is why Pan-Am holds its body under punishment that soon breaks down less hardy oils. It keeps the hottest friction spots in any motor safe from destructive wear. Yet Pan-Am actually costs you less than ordinary motor oil, because it stays on the job long after others thin to the danger point.

Fill up today at the first Pan-Am pump you see. You can be sure of honest service from any Pan-Am dealer. And you know that the products he sells are produced and distributed by one reliable organization.

This attractive service station at 490 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., is owned and operated by Pan-Am. In addition to having many licensed dealers in Atlanta, Pan-Am also operates its own stations at the following places:

CLEAN gasoline

Next time you see a Pan-Am pump, look at the gasoline in the visible bowl. Note its crystal-clear color... the absence of any dirt or foreign matter. This gasoline is clean! It is processed with unusual care to remove carbon-forming elements found in many gasolines.

That means a motor clean as a whistle, for tip-top performance! It means less carbon trouble and knocking—a wealth of extra power—and amazing mileage economy.

This easy-pouring five gallon drum gives you a good home supply of SAFE oil; and the one-gallon tin is handy to carry in your car.

Inquest Into Fatal Shooting Of Judge McClelland Today; Funeral Is Set for Saturday

Relatives Assign Despondency Over Ill Health as Cause of Popular Jurist's Suicidal Act.

An inquest into the death of Judge L. F. McClelland, 52, of the municipal court of Atlanta, who was found in a dying condition with a pistol bullet through his head, in his room at 1516 Moraine drive, early Thursday morning, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Coroner Paul Doneho at the chapel of Ed Bond and Condon company.

Funeral services of Judge McClelland will be held at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning from the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, with the Rev. Wade H. Boggs officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery, with the Atlanta Lodge of Elks, of which Judge McClelland was a past exalted ruler, in charge of the services at the graveside.

Judges and attaches of the municipal court will serve as pallbearers, as follows: Judges Luther Rosser, J. B. Ridley, T. O. Harbeck and A. L. Etheridge, and Marshals O. H. Puckett and J. M. George. The body will lie in state at Ed Bond and Condon's funeral parlors at 125 Ivy street, N. E., until Saturday morning.

Despondency Over Health.

Despondency over poor health, the effects of a nervous breakdown, was assigned by relatives to investigating officers as the cause of Judge McClelland's act. Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole and Detectives S. A. Smith and J. A. McKibben were told that Judge McClelland had never recovered his mental composure since the death of his son, L. F. McClelland, Jr., at the University of Georgia, in 1922, and that the jurist had been in failing health for some time.

Judge McClelland had displayed better spirits during the few days prior to his death and apparently there was nothing unusual in his demeanor when he retired Wednesday night, detectives were told.

Mrs. McClelland was awakened about 6 o'clock Thursday morning by a sound which she at first thought was distant thunder. Hearing the sound of heavy breathing shortly afterward, however, she entered his room and found Judge McClelland lying on the floor in a pool of blood, the pistol in his hand.

The bullet had passed in the right temple and out at the left side of the head. Summoning Marshal George, of the municipal court, Mrs. McClelland had her husband rushed to Grady hospital, but death ensued an hour later.

Born at Stone Mountain.
Judge McClelland was born at Stone Mountain, and moved to Atlanta at an early age. He was one of the most popular members of the bar, and had a large number of friends throughout this section. He presided over a civil division of the municipal court since that court was established in 1914. Prior to that time he was engaged in law practice.

He was an active member of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, and past master of the Stone Mountain Lodge of Masons, as well as past grand noble of the Georgia Odd Fellows. He served three terms as exalted ruler of Atlanta Lodge of Elks, No. 78.

In addition to his wife, Judge McClelland is survived by two daughters, Miss Gladys McClelland and Mrs. Rose Johnson; four sisters, Mrs. J. P. Beaton, Mrs. F. M. Patton and Mrs. Kate Sumner, all of Atlanta; and Mrs. J. A. Cloutier, of South Carolina, and three nephews, John McClelland, solicitor-elect of the criminal court of Atlanta, Ralph McClelland, attorney, and Ellis McClelland.

In respect to Judge McClelland's memory, all judges in the Fulton county courthouse Thursday adjourned court and dismissed jurors for today. All civil divisions of the municipal court adjourned until after the funeral.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE GOVERNOR OF FLORIDA AGAIN HONORS LOWE WINS EVERGLADES SUIT

W. C. Lowe, principal of the Atlanta Commercial High school, has been re-elected along with other prominent educators to the faculty of the

W. C. LOWE.

1928 business and commercial teachers' institute of Broward's Business college, it was announced Thursday by Clarke E. Harrison, vice president and manager.

The teachers institute will be held this year over a six weeks' period from June 2 to August 10, and news that Professor Lowe is included in its faculty will be of widespread interest because of the Commercial High school principal's extensive acquaintance.

In addition to Professor Lowe, the faculty this year also will include O. J. Dickey, principal of the commercial department of Benson High school in Omaha, Neb., and nationally-known commercial executive, Charles F. Hainfeld, for 12 years a national leader in educational circles and a candidate for the degree of Ph.D. at New York university's school of education, and others. Mr. Hainfeld will be director and instructor of the teachers' institute.

The courses of the institute are devoted entirely to instruction in the science of pedagogy as applied to teaching of business and commercial subjects, and are officially recognized by the state educational department as credits applying to professionalization of teachers' certificates. The faculty is a strong one; the sessions are held in the model plant of Daughon's Business college here, and the courses offered cover a comprehensive field, Mr. Harrison pointed out.

Flying Squadron To Canvass Jews In Small Towns

With preparations for Atlanta's drive in the annual United Palestine appeal for $7,500,000 rapidly reaching their final stages, announcement was made Thursday by J. Saul, general chairman, of an out-of-town committee to canvass Jews in the small communities surrounding Atlanta. The committee will act as a flying squadron to visit towns in a radius of 50 miles during the 10 days of the drive which starts Tuesday, April 17.

Members of the committee, in addition to Mr. Saul, are H. Mendel, L. J. Levins, Mrs. Jake Faerman, Mrs. Jennie Kahn and Miss Rose Goldstein.

Commenting upon the U. P. A. drive, Mr. Mendel, a prominent wholesale drygoods merchant and a vice chairman of the local drive, made the following statement:

"No Jewish community in America can fail to participate in the U. P. A. campaign when acquainted with the details of the great historic work being undertaken.

"The U. P. A. campaign is an appeal of various institutions that formerly worked independently. Among the component organizations is the Keren Hayesod, the Palestine foundation fund, which is used for encouraging immigration, colonization and education in Palestine. Another element is the Jewish national fund, whose function it is to purchase soil of Palestine as the inalienable property of the Jewish people.

"A third organization participating in the United Palestine Appeal is the Hadassah Medical organization, which is charged with the duty of looking after sanitation and medical aid among the population of Palestine regardless of race, creed or color. An important component of the U. P. A. is the Hebrew university, which maintains in Palestine a high standard of intellectual life by research and extension work."

BANK PRESIDENT IN FLORIDA FOUND GUILTY OF FRAUD

Mexico City, April 12.—(AP)—A dispatch El Paso, N. M., said that a woman named Agripina conferred upon herself the title of colonel and followed by 150 men took the field against the government in the district of Colón, state of Querétaro.

Agripina, anxious to turn her forces from infantry into cavalry, attacked Los Lobos ranch and seized planes. She marched toward Guanajuato and from there it was reported that she was threatening a ranch at Chichimequillo.

Troops have been rushed after the Belliscope Agripina.

LEUTENANT EDGAR HOE GIVES ADDRESS TONIGHT

Lieutenant Commissioner Edgar Hoe, missionary officer of the Salvation Army, who has been giving a series of talks this week on his 30 years' experience as an officer in India, will speak tonight at the third corps headquarters at 164 Carroll street, and on Saturday and Sunday at fourth corps headquarters, 779 Bankhead ave. Commissioner Hoe has spoken three times already this week, detailing fascinating views and incidents of his pioneer work for the army movement in the Indian empire.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 12.—(AP)—Governor John W. Martin's plan for financing reclamation work in the Florida Everglades to its completion, has again withstood the judicial test of the state's highest court. The supreme court today denied the petition of opponents of the governor's program to reconsider its recent decision holding acts of the 1927 legislature, authorizing the issuance of $20,000,000 worth of additional Everglades bonds constitutional and valid.

The decision in the rehearing petition, like that previously rendered, was unanimous.

The acts of the 1927 legislature, advocated in a personal message from the governor, authorized the levying of an ad valorem tax in the reclamation district, and the diverting of certain revenue, now derived by state boards from lands in the area for the liquidating of the latest proposed bond issue. Under the governor's plan, $10,000,000 worth of bonds would be sold now, and an additional $10,000,000 worth as the funds are needed to complete the work.

DR. C. M. SNELLING TO ADDRESS ALUMNI GATHERING TODAY

Dr. Charles M. Snelling, chancellor of the University of Georgia, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Atlanta chapter, Georgia Alumni association, at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Henry Grady hotel, according to announcement Thursday.

The meeting has been moved up to permit delegates to the Georgia Education association to attend. All visiting educators are invited to join with the Georgia alumni in the luncheon meeting. An entertainment program of music and other amusement has been arranged. Gordon G. Singleton, president of the Atlanta chapter, will preside.

LENIENCY GRANTED FURNITURE MAN UNDER SENTENCE

Washington, April 12.—(AP)—The department of justice today authorized the district attorney at Chicago to recommend leniency in the case of Arthur C. Brown, secretary of the National Council of Furniture Manufacturers, who was sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment for contempt of court.

Chicago, April 12.—(AP)—Arthur C. Brown, secretary of the National Council of Furniture Manufacturers, was given a jail sentence because he refused to produce the books of the organization during a grand jury investigation of the association.

Subsequently the officers and more than 200 members of the council of furniture manufacturers were indicted for conspiracy under the federal anti-trust laws. Many pleaded guilty. Others accepted fines but refused to admit participation.

Georgian Drops Dead.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 12.—(AP)—Sam Aarons, believed to have been from Savannah, Ga., dropped dead while seated in a store here today. Physicians diagnosed the case as acute indigestion. Aarons was planning to open a store of his own here.

Asthma Disappeared, Had It 15 Years

65-Year-Old Lady Says Cough, Wheezing and Asthma Gone.

Elderly people who suffer with asthma and bronchial coughs will find interest in a letter written by Mrs. Elizabeth Woodward (65 years old), 3466 W. Michigan St., Indianapolis. She writes:

"I had asthma for 15 years. I coughed hard, wheezed, was short of breath, and my stomach caused me a lot of trouble. For one year I couldn't do any work, not even wash my clothes. In 1933, I started taking Sactor. The wheezing and cough have left entirely, and I do not have the slightest sign of asthma now. I am feeling fine, able to work, and gaining steadily in weight."

If you suffer from asthma, bronchitis or chronic cough, you should read the "First Information about these diseases, in a booklet, sent by Dr. Pierce's Medical Co., 60 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. They will also send you the letters of people whose trouble disappeared years ago and never returned. No matter how serious your case, write for this free information. It has led thousands back to health and strength."

Personal Comment By Mrs. Loree Welch

Augusta, Ga.—"I suffered for a long time. I had no strength, my nerves were in bad condition, my back ached and I had bearing pains thru my sides. I was so completely run-down and miserable that I could hardly drag myself around. I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicine. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery' together, and by the use of these medicines I have regained my health and am feeling better than I have for a long time. I am gaining in weight, my nerves are in good condition. I don't have that heavy, tired, draggy, all worn-out feeling that I always had before."—Mrs. Loree Welch, 2224 Broad St. All druggists. Crackers Rout Horan To Beat Lookouts in Opener Here, 6-3

West Clouts First Homer At Spiller's

Pence Checks 'Nooga Bats While Mates Drive Jinx From Field.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

There used to be a time, no later than last season, when the boys would tell you that whenever Johnny Horan pitched for Chattanooga and Atlanta was the opponent that it was just another ball game won for Chattanooga.

That was last year, and not yesterday, when Atlanta opened the home season, defeating Chattanooga 6-3. The Lookouts, it seems, relied on Horan and his jinx again this year and accordingly Manager Joe Mathes sent in the right-handed Mr. Horan to pitch at Spiller's yesterday. Well, it was just too bad about Mr. Horan. He lasted exactly three innings and in that time the business end of the Cracker batting order had come to life, made seven hits and scored five runs for the delight and edification of 14,169 Atlanta people.

Mr. Horan struggled mightily and manfully. But from the time "Powerhouse" Zoeller led off for Atlanta with a double dumped far out on the right field bank, Walter Gilbert was safe at first on a wild throw by Tony Defate and Billy Rhiel doubled down the third base line to score Gilbert and Zoeller. Mr. Horan and his jinx over the Crackers meant about as much as the usual "hot tip" on a horse race.

Merciless.

The boys showed no mercy whatever for Horan. At the beginning of the fourth inning there was a commotion in the Chattanooga dugout and out came somebody resembling a telephone pole dressed up in a baseball uniform with a mustache and a location. It further developed that Chattanooga was sending in a new pitcher, this was it, and his name was Jim Weaver. Weaver hit all of seven feet tall. He worked the remaining five innings and the Crackers made three hits off his delivery.

That gave the home club a total of 10 hits, which is some better than those two games in Nashville wherein the combined total of hits amounted to nine. Thursday's game, however, hit something in a manner befitting their past records, which caused them to be dubbed "Murders Row." Out of the 10 blows Weaver took, he was on base at the time and it was the only run scored in that inning by the Crackers.

Homer.

West's home run like the w. k. bolt out of the blue. He was first man up in the third inning and Horan put one over that Max immediately. It fell upon all his force, sent the ball a mighty blow and sent it flying out to the colored grandstand, causing a scattering of the colored people in that section. No one was on base at the time and it was the only run scored in that inning by the Crackers.

The other extra base hitting of the day came from the bats of Rhiel, Brock and Zoeller, who produced doubles, and Johnny Jones, who leaped quickly upon the bases, sent the ball in the fifth inning and dropped the ball in the temporary stands erected in center field. Ground rules allowed Johnny a triple.

Russell Pence mounted the mound for Atlanta and pitched a very good ball game, such as he came through with last Sunday in Louisville. Chattanooga nipped him for one run and one hit in the first when Taylor, first man up, slammed out a double. A sacrifice bunt by Connolly sent Taylor to third and a long sacrifice fly to center brought him galloping home with the first run of the game.

Noisy.

Then in the fourth inning two hits and a walk served to score another Lookout tally. But Pence rocked along until the eighth inning, allowing only four hits. In the eighth, however, Chattanooga bats became noisy. Connolly doubled to center and Cashion sent one steaming through short for a single, advancing Connolly to third. A long sacrifice to center by Felber scored Connolly. Following that, Tony Defate singled to center, but Stevenson, next man up, hit into a double play. Rhiel to Jones to Poole, that retired the side quietly and effectively.

Two bases on balls and a well-timed single by Billy Rhiel, who hit three out of three Thursday, scored Russell Pence in the second inning. This followed the three runs scored in the first when Rhiel's double accounted for Zoeller and Gilbert pounding the rubber. Rhiel was sent to third on Strain's single to right and scored on a sacrifice fly to center field by Max West.

Then in the third inning West came through with his home run, of which he poled many while making an average of 365 with Waco of the Texas League last year. In the fifth Johnny Jones got his triple and scored on Weaver's balk.

Puzzler.

But after Weaver went in for Chat-

YANKEES MUST HAVE HEARD FIGHT PILOT'S ULTIMATUM

No Dough, No Victories Seems Attitude of Champions

BY ALAN J. GOULD.

New York, April 12.—(AP)—They tell the story of the ultimatum once delivered to a promoter by the manager of a famous fighter.

"If there ain't no dough there ain't gonna be no fight!" So it seems with the New York Yankees. They didn't win many ball games in the south during the training season. In fact they lost with such consistent rapidity that many of the experts started picturing their downfall. But they were the same old murderers' row when the season opened in Philadelphia and the outcome of the game meant something in the standing of the clubs.

tanogha, he had the local talent rather puzzled. He wound up in sections and when bringing his foot down, seemed to step half-way to dishing his height to an overhead delivery made Mr. Weaver rather hard to hit.

But it was a pleasing sacrifice hit. Much better than the pair played in Nashville. The Crackers were hitting yesterday and they'll probably keep on hitting. The fielders were excellent with one exception. That was when Johnny Jones, in the second inning, made a perfect throw to Poole at first, who, for some unknown reason, dropped the ball, giving Lingle, 'Nooga catcher, a new lease on life.

Outside of the incident mentioned above, the Crackers conducted themselves admirably. Two double plays were pulled. Johnny Jones made seemingly impossible stops at short. Frankie Zoeller, in the ninth inning, hopped on a bicycle and pedaled all the way back to the negro bleachers to take in Lingle's hard-hit fly-ball.

This afternoon the two play again, beginning at 3 o'clock. Skipper Niehoff said Thursday night that Clinax Blithen, right-handed and one of Atlanta's good pitchers, would hurl it. It's Friday, the thirteenth, so don't be surprised at whatever happens.

Thursday's preliminary program of flag-raising, driving of golf balls by Bob Jones, and all, went off with few hitches. Miss Helen Menken, leading lady of the Erlanger Players, however,

"If there ain't no dough we ain't gonna win no ball games." There is little question that the Yankees are a great "money club," a team that is tough to beat when the big stakes are involved.

Snappy Athlete.

The world's champions have a remarkable mixture of youthful enthusiasm and seasoned talent. Not all the enthusiasm is confined to the youngsters of the club, either. There isn't a snapper athlete on the field.

The Bambino not only is the club's greatest all-around star and the big gate attraction, but he sets the pace for them all. Time hasn't curbed the big fellow's youthful spirit.

When the Yankees are in the midst of a rally or when they need to start one you can see Ruth slapping the men on the back or urging them on vocally in language that is as picturesque as the Babe himself.

In his book of diamond recollections, Ruth tells the story of how this enthusiasm once got the better of him and enabled John McGraw to outsmart the big slugger.

Back in 1923 Series.

The incident occurred in the 1923 world's series. The final game, when Ruth came to bat with the bases full in the eighth inning with the Yankees one run behind the Giants.

The Babe was so eager to connect that with the count two and three he swung, and of course, missed a ball that Ryan threw into the dirt.

McGraw, Ruth found out later, had heard of the Babe's wild desire to hit at any cost and deliberately ordered Ryan to throw a bad ball. It was good strategy but Bob Meusel derided its effect by knocking the ball hit that won the game and the series.

Pequans aren't won on opening day but it is significant that both the Yankees and the Pirates, 1927 champions, got away to flying starts a year ago.

The Yankees have repeated at the expense of their former rivals, the Athletics, but the Pirates didn't look like champions against the Cardinals in their opening day defeat. The Braves, however, do not regard this as an ill omen.

It ought to be a great race for base-running honors this year between Frank Frisch, the Fordham flash, and his Chicago Cub rival, "Kiki" Cuyler.

Bench.

Last season Cuyler was away to a great start around the paths, but his subsequent benching gave Frisch a chance to go out in front and stay there. Kiki spent most of his time picking up splinters instead of stealing bases.

But things are different this year with both at scratch on the getaway. Kiki has a slight edge over Frankie for the past four years in spite of his inactivity last season. The Cub streak has a total of 128 thefts while the Cardinal flash has 114 for this four-year period.

crossed everyone up. Skipper Niehoff had wanted a woman of the southwamp variety to pitch the first ball, Miss Menken applied for the job and was accepted. Thursday she warmed up before going on the mound, and threw like all southwamps do, with her left hand. And then she marched out to the mound and pitched Johnny Brock here balls with her right hand. She's red-headed, though, so we guess that explains it.

HAWK-EYEING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Programs and Things.

This thing of converting a mere baseball game into a program of events longer than the dream of salvation may be pie for the customers but not so the scribes. Such programs are joyous to watch and even to participate in but the chronicling is entirely something else—what ever that meaningless expression may convey.

If part of the program each day were a dinner such as was served by the Sears-Roebuck company to the mayor, governor, members of city council, Junior Chamber leaders and sports writers before the Thursday game, such programs would receive the unanimous vote of all scribes.

And by the same token, if the presentation of beautiful gold-plated safety razors to all members of the Cracker club and the press before each game by J. G. Murray of the Autostrop company, then the program would not be so bad to chronicle. Gold, even in the form of safety razors, is an effective balm for tired typewriters.

Still and all, the Program WAS a decided success from boisterous beginning to hilarious ending. Miss Helen Menken, of the Erlanger theater, threw the ball to Johnny Brock to open the game just as it should be thrown and even caught it when Johnny threw it back to her. That is beyond belief but true, nevertheless.

Robert Tyre got as big a hand with his drives over the back fence as Max West did in the third inning when he laid himself heir to several carloads of prizes for hitting the first home run of the Cracker season at home.

The United States marines never got out of step once while marching to the flag pole for the ceremony of flag-raising, and this above all things proved that the program had been carefully and frequently rehearsed. Everything was letter perfect except in the golf driving contest between John J. Dubb, Wayward Boye and Hy Stericks. There must have been some mistake there for John J. Dubb won the pair of Florsheim shoes for hitting the ball closest to the pitcher's box. Both Boye and Stericks have declared for publication that when Dubb wins anything at golf there must be a mistake.

There were clowns on hand for the festivities. A few of them, dressed in clowning finery, came from Loew's Grand theater and one of them wore the uniform of Chattanooga's Lookouts. This last clown was just born that way. His name is Jim Weaver and he brought joy to a proud mother by growing to the height of six feet and seven inches with at least half that amount of footage turned up on the lower end of his body. He went to Bowling Green normal at the city by that name in Kentucky and there he learned to pitch. Now whatever may be said of Mr. Weaver's clownish actions in the box and out it can not be said that the long boy does not pitch a baseball just about as it should be pitched. He held the Crackers to three safeties in six frames and in addition to holding them virtually helpless he scared most of them gray-headed with his barn-door delivery. He was decidedly the hit of the afternoon in so far as the visiting team was concerned.

About the baseball game. Careful racking of that which we use in lieu of a brain brings the conviction that there was a ball game during the afternoon and that the Crackers won by a score of 6-3. That in itself is really something to write about, but the game as a whole really brought forth nothing startling.

For the fan who dies many deaths every time the Crackers lose a ball game there was balm of a sort. In fact, a few specific performances give rise to certain elation on the part of anyone who is even mildly interested.

Probably the most hopeful incident of the afternoon's baseball was the driving of Johnny Horan from the mound to the Lookout showers at the end of the third inning. This Horan man was one of the many jinx (or jinxes or jinni or whatever the plural may be) of the Crackers of 1927. Thursday he was just another pitcher and not so hot at that.

The playing of Rhiel and Jones around the Keystone gave food for pleasant thought. These two, with Jim Poole, staged two fast double plays Thursday and handled their chances without mishap. Jones handled some extremely hard assists at short and never failed to deliver.

The hitting of the Crackers was nothing to cause any serious plague of joyous insanity but it was sufficient to win the game and therein lies the test. The pitching of "Tup-pence" Pence was good enough to win most ball games and that is more than can be said of the efforts of the other hurlers who have performed this season for the clan of Niehoff.

The Crackers lost two games to Nashville and the pertinent question seems to be "What of it?" They won the third game of the season from the Lookouts and the same question applies. These early games all count in the averages, to be sure, but wait 'till the hitters "get their feet on the ground" and wait 'till the pitchers get a fair test before passing judgment either way. At the end of 30 days the time will come to shed salty tears or loose an avalanche of doxy cheers. The time is not yet.

And opening day is over. May thanks be given where it is most deserved.

The SPORTLIGHT

The Break of the Game.

He took his turn, half-heartedly, outlining an excuse. He figured he was beaten, so he couldn't see the use; But when he made his little play, it took a lucky swerve, a sudden, unexpected hop, a little winning curve. And straightway they exclaimed about his courage, and his nerve.

He started in with bulldog jaw to make a winning fight. He started in to see it through as any scrapper might. But when he cut in with his play, it took a hard luck bound. And caromed as it shouldn't have on any sort of ground. And so they rose and branded him a quitter and a hound.

Before you speak of "winning nerve" or paint the "yellow streak" it's just as well to look behind the score before you speak.

Tennis and Golf—An Argument.

"You've never answered my question," writes L. B. H., "as to whether golf or tennis was the more scientific game." In the process of writing several thousand words upon the subject the question would still be unanswered. The two games are totally different. Tennis calls for greater physical ability—speed, quickness of eye—quickness of hand and foot. Golf demands no such physical qualifications.

There are many more good golfers than there are good tennis players for several reasons. One is that many more are playing golf. Another is that golf has at least three thousand professionals to instruct. Another is that a good golfer doesn't have to be physically active, while a good tennis player does.

There is a great variety of stroke play in golf, where six or seven different types of clubs are required for various trajectories, and where the four-mile range demands shots from bunkers, heavy grass, puppy lies, into cross winds, back of trees and what not.

There is a wider shift in form among the topnotchers in golf than there is in tennis. There is much more luck, good or bad, in golf than there is in tennis. The better player will win often in tennis than he will in golf.

But the relative science of the two games is left open to some other judge who may care to pass upon the debate.

Standing the Strain.

It has been argued that a heavy strain upon the legs will soon slow down any athlete. Over 12 years ago the tip was spread that Ty Cobb would soon fade out, because no pair of legs could stand the terrific strain he put upon them after game, year after year. Cobb was also throwing his body into one base or another at top speed. He managed to keep going a respectable time.

Then there is Charlie Paddock, the western gale. It was argued that Paddock would soon kill off his speed, because no runner put as heavy a burden on his legs as Paddock did in his final tremendous thrusts which sent a stocky body hurtling through the air for the last 15 or 20 feet.

Paddock ran the 100 in 9.45 in 1913. He ran the 100 in 9.45 again in 1928. To be able to break 10 flat in races that were 15 years apart would indicate that Paddock has handled the leg strain fairly well. He was a great runner before the war. The war is now barely more than a dim and distant memory, but Paddock is still a great runner. If the crushing pressure he seemed to put upon his legs has had any ill effect it doesn't show in his running after 15 years of competition.

Today's Golf Menu.

The correct play of the wrists in the golf swing has always been one of the most baffling studies for the average golfer to learn and follow. He will be told by some to pronate or roll his wrist at the start of the back swing. He will be told by others to wait for the wrist-break until he reaches the top of the back swing. As a rule he will do neither correctly, and yet this correct use of the wrists is one of the fundamentals for consistent golf.

The best golfers take the club back with little wrist movement, only as much as might be necessary, until they come to the top of the swing. Here they get the first bend or break in what Bobby Jones calls "cocking the left wrist." It is from this movement that one gets into position to use the whip or snap needed in the act of hitting the ball. If the wrists are unbent at the top of the swing, if they are still wooden and locked, it is simple enough to see that there is no chance to get the final snap needed in hitting the ball. If a gun isn't cocked it can't be fired.

At the top of the left swing as the left wrist "is cocked," there should be a feeling of power for the down swing. If there isn't, the wrist action is all wrong. But the surest way out of trouble is to locate a good pro and have him give a clear mental pattern of wrist action.

Otherwise one might keep on floundering for many years in a vain attempt to locate a drifting shadow in the dark.

Game School.

A gamekeepers' school has been organized in New Jersey and will furnish clubs and estates with trained men.

U. of Michigan And Bulldogs Clash Today

Waller or Murdock Slated To Hurl for Georgians at Athens.

BY BOB SHERROD.

Athens, Ga., April 12.—Coach Bill White's undefeated Georgia Bulldogs will face the strong University of Michigan baseball team here Friday and Saturday in a two-game series. The Bulldogs' last scheduled game, one with Auburn last Tuesday, was called off on account of rain. The champion Tigers played nine innings to a tie game with the Bulldogs on Monday.

Either Jack Waller, veteran in at three seasons, or Lefty Murdock, sophomore sensation, will face the Wolverines in the opening game Friday. The Michigan team is reputed to be a very strong one this year. They took two successive games from the Georgians last year. In their lineup is found the name of Oosterbaan, all American football player of last season.

Clean Slate.

The Red and Black nine has yet to meet with defeat since the college season began, although they played a draw game with Auburn. The New York Giants took their number in an exhibition game early in the spring.

The Bulldogs have a rest of almost a week after meeting Michigan, not playing again until April 20 and 21, when they meet Alabama during the spring games in Athens. However, they play six games the following week, all of them being in the Carolinas.

Following are the results thus far: Georgia 13, Mercer 9; Georgia 9, Mercer 7; Georgia 9, Kentucky 9; Georgia 6, Kentucky 1; Georgia 9, Maryland 1; Georgia 5, Maryland 4; Georgia 15, Mercer 2; Georgia 3, Auburn 3.

MISS COLLETT AND MRS. GAUT CLASH TODAY

Boloxi, Miss., April 12.—(AP)—Four of the north and south amateur golfers today advanced to tomorrow's championship flight semifinals of the Pan-American women's amateur golf tournament being played over the Edgewater Golf Hotel course here.

Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., shooting below par; Mrs. David C. Gaut, Memphis; Miss Marion Turpie, New Orleans, and Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, are the surviving quartette from the eight starters this morning. While Miss Collett thrilled the gallery with her low score, Mrs. Mida, western medalist, turned in exactly a par, a score of 79 to defeat Mrs. Dalton Raymond, Baton Rouge, La., southern champion, 2 up.

Tomorrow Miss Collett will meet Mrs. Gaut in the top bracket, while Miss Turpie and Mrs. Mida will fight it out in the lower.

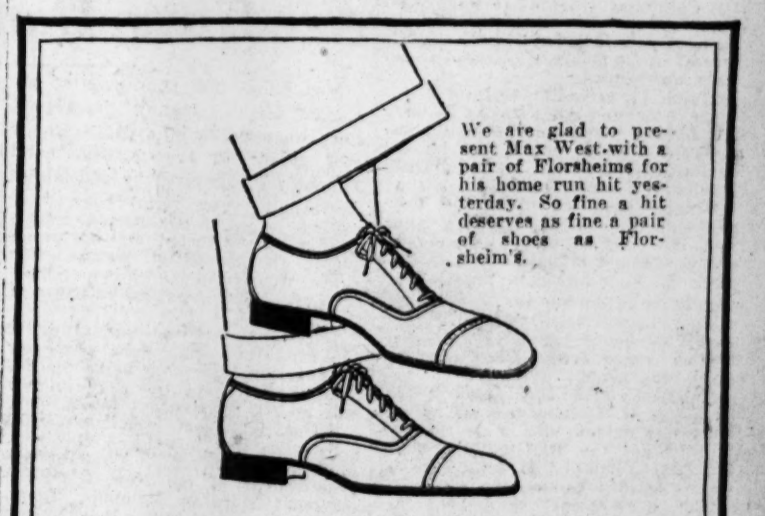

Bike Track.

An outdoor bicycle track will be built in Brooklyn, N. Y., with a seating capacity of 20,000.

- The exhibits must be entered by 11 o'clock and be plainly marked with name of variety and class to which it belongs.

Garden Committee

Met at Woman's Club.

The garden committee of the Atlanta Woman's club met Thursday at the clubhouse with Mrs. Fritz Jones presiding. Mrs. A. L. Carter, a member of the committee, read a paper on the flora of that section of Africa. Miss Agnes Kendrick Gray, nationally known Atlanta poet, wrote a poem, "Gardens Are Better Shared," in honor of the garden committee, which was read at the meeting. The poem will be preserved in the scrapbook of the committee, which is being kept by Mrs. Frank Patten.

A discussion on perennials was led by Miss May Hudson. April is a good time to plant perennials in this locality, so as to become well established before the hot weather sets in. The garden of the Woman's club, established in Piedmont park, will be in bloom this spring. Red and white, the colors of the Woman's club, predominate in the plantings, but other colors of roses will be used. The rose garden is on the slope outside the tennis court, facing the swimming pool. The idea of the rose garden was conceived by the committee when Mrs. Joel Hunter was chairman, and through the efforts of Mrs. Price-Smith, president of the Woman's club, assisted by L. L. Wallis, superintendent of parks, the site was secured.

Kentucky Club

Gives Silver Tea.

The Kentucky club, of Atlanta, entertained at a silver tea Wednesday at the Woman's club, for the benefit of the Needlework Guild, of which the club is an active part. The personnel is composed of Mrs. John M. Mount, president; Mrs. Murray Hubbard and Mrs. Sam B. Mitchell, vice presidents; Mrs. John Kerksis and Mrs. J. Hite Gooch, secretaries; and Mrs. Henry B. McKnight, treasurer.

Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, president of the Woman's club, presided over the program including a paper on Henry Clay, in celebration of whose natal day the tea was given, written by Mrs. Julia Evans Cope, and read by Mrs. John Kerksis. Songs were rendered by Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend, "The Wind Is in the South Today," by John Pringle Scott, and "Good Morning," by Grief, with Miss Ardis Colby as accompanist. "Ave Maria," by Schubert, and "Capriccio Valse," by Wieniawski, accompanied by Miss Ruth Dabney Smith. Mrs. Price-Smith introduced several descendants of noted men in regard to their illustrious kinsmen. Mrs. Newton J. Baxter entertained the Kentucky club Tuesday afternoon, April 24, at her home near Griffin.

LaGrange Students

To Attend Opera.

LaGrange, Ga., April 12.—Announcement is made that the following students from LaGrange college will be the guests of M. Rich & Bros. Co., at opera: Misses Aurelia Adams, of Danversville; Lucile Cassel, of Atlanta; Catherine Chesnut, of Tifton; Martha Jane Estes, of Senoia; Manita Hall, Monticello; Mary Hays, of Douglasville; Mary Head, of LaGrange; Georgia Knox, of Atlanta; Ruth Lewis, of Atlanta; Lura Lifsey, of Griffin; Carolyn McLendon, of Clarkston; Mae Ratcliffe, of Nichols; Mary Teasley, of Bowman; Mae Beall Yancey, of Caplinton, and Eloise White, of Chippley.

Play To Be Presented

In East Atlanta.

The dramatic club of the College Park Presbyterian Sunday school will present a three-act comedy, "The Elongation of Ellen," at the John B. Gordon school in East Atlanta Saturday evening, April 14. This play has been given twice in College Park, being sponsored by the College Park Woman's club, and meeting with great success. It will be given the third time to raise funds for the Moreland Avenue Baptist church, and the money made will go to assist in building the new Moreland Avenue Baptist church.

In order to enable all school children as well as the adults of East Atlanta to see this unusual display of talent by College Park's leading young people the play is being offered at the popular prices of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

Speakers' Club

Holds Banquet.

The Speakers' club of the Atlanta School of Oratory and Expression, 402 Wesley Memorial Church building, held its monthly banquet Tuesday evening at the Wincoff hotel. The program chairman for the evening was Mrs. Eula Howe. The program centered around the theme of "Sports." The speakers and their subjects were as follows: Lamar Hutchinson, "Football," Jerry Clark, "Track," Miss Stella Murry, "Volley Ball," W. T. Webb, "A Smile," R. B. White, a reading, "One Eyed Coon," Dr. Robert E. Latta, "Playing the Game," Dr. James F. Watson spoke on the "Game of Science," showing the advance in speech training and all the leading sciences.

Round of Parties To Be Held Today At Ft. McPherson

Fort McPherson, April 12.—A group of entertainments fill today's social calendar among the army contingent. Mrs. Walter O. Boswell is entertaining at a luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf club in honor of Mrs. Abraham G. Lott. Covers will be placed for 14 members of the army circle.

This afternoon Miss Margaret Casaday will be hostess at a bridge-tee Miss Casaday has arranged six tables for bridge and additional guests have been invited for tea.

Friday Evening Lieutenant and Mrs. Gilbert Proctor will entertain at a hop-supper preceding the hop at the Officers' club.

Colonel and Mrs. Harry H. Tebbetts and Miss Dorothy Tebbetts have returned from a delightful motor trip through Florida. Their itinerary included a leisurely tour down the west coast, stopping at Jacksonville and Tampa for brief visits, and a longer stay at famous Daytona Beach. A particular pleasure of the trip was a brief visit with Colonel and Mrs. Ernest Eddy Haskell, who are vacationing at Clermont before going to their new station at Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mrs. A. W. Rapp, of Clarksburg, W. Va., who has been such an attractive addition to the garrison as the guest of her sister and brother, Colonel and Mrs. Melville S. Jarvis, for several weeks, left Tuesday evening for her home. En route Mrs. Rapp will visit the beautiful Magnolia Gardens, which at this season prove a never for numberless motorists.

A group of music lovers of the army contingent who are planning to attend grand opera are General and Mrs. Richmond F. Davis, General and Mrs. Abraham G. Lott, Colonel and Mrs. George F. Baltzell, Colonel and Mrs. Melville S. Jarvis, Colonel and Mrs. Harry J. Tebbetts, and Miss Dorothy Tebbetts, Captain and Mrs. Malcolm Fortier and Captain and Mrs. David E. Barnett.

Miss Vivian McAfee

Weds Mr. Hamilton.

Dublin, Ga., April 12.—Miss Vivian McAfee and N. M. Hamilton were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McAfee. Dr. C. D. Graves performed the ceremony. Mrs. W. S. Haddock sang "At Dawning," with accompaniment by Mrs. E. H. Langston and she played the wedding march.

The bride wore a lovely costume of pink georgette and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony they were entertained by W. S. Haddock, manager of the New Dublin hotel, with a dinner party; after which the young couple left for a bridal trip in their car.

The bride is very popular and in a recent contest was chosen one of the maids for the American Legion sponsor at the coming state convention. Mr. Hamilton is from a prominent family at Thomasville, but has had headquarters in Atlanta for some time. He is a splendid young man in every way and is connected with the firm of Manufacturers Finance Acceptance corporation, for which he handles a wide territory in this section.

Special Performance for Grown-Ups

"Dr. Faustus" 11 O'Clock

Presenting the old German puppet show—from which Goethe took his inspiration for his classic play—and from which the Opera is derived.

—Those who saw "Little Red Riding Hood" Monday have told so very many of their friends how perfectly exciting it was—that Helen Joseph's Puppets will give another performance tomorrow afternoon.

As a Very, Very Special Favor—Mothers,

—Won't you let the children be seated first? At the other performances of Red Riding Hood there just simply wasn't enough room—and dozens had to go back home without seeing Red Riding Hood! We almost felt like crying with them—it was really heart-breaking to see their disappointment!

Constitution's Patterns

Paris Inspires a Frock of Smartness

Pattern 3021. Individuality is found in this one-piece frock with neckline knotted and tied to one side. Chic is imparted by a pointed vest, and a group of flat pleats at each side of the skirt front proclaim it suitable for sports or the more formal afternoon mode. Two narrow belts are smarter than one and add a different touch. No. 3021 is designed in sizes, 14 to 18 years and 38 to 42 inches bust. Size 18 requires 3 5/8 yards of 39-inch material. It will be sent to you on receipt of 20 cents in stamps or currency (coin preferred). Refer to pattern 3021.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. There is a charming assortment of fashions from which to choose your requirements in our new fashion book. 15 cents the copy.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Silly the Sloth.
He's handicapped who lacks in grace;
But more so with a silly face.
—Scraper the Kingbird.

Scraper the Kingbird is quite right about this. It is very difficult to believe that one with a silly face has any brains. Quite often this is true, but on the other hand, a silly face may be a mask. One cannot always tell.

"Silly the Sloth," said Bobby Coon. "Silly the Sloth? What a name! Why do you call this upside down chap Silly?"

Scraper chuckled. "Because he has such a silly face," he replied promptly. "Never in all your born days, Bobby Coon, have you seen such a silly face as this queer fellow has. But then, he is queer in so many ways that I suppose it is to be expected."

"He certainly is queer if he travels around upside down," exclaimed Bobby. "But if there is any sense in him, I don't see how he can do it."

"Well," replied Scraper, "to begin with, he has only three toes on each foot, and each toe is armed with a very long claw, like a hook. 'Three toes!' exclaimed Bobby. 'Whoever heard of such a thing? The idea of an animal with only three toes!'"

"Huh!" exclaimed Bobby. "There is one member of the Sloth family who has only two toes on each foot. Now, what do you think of that?"

"I think," replied Bobby, "that I'm mighty glad I'm not a Sloth. I must be most uncomfortable walking with those big hook-like claws."

"Who said anything about Silly walking?" demanded Scraper. "I told you he spends all his time in the treetops. He certainly cannot walk on the ground. All he can do is to pull himself along. And he doesn't go down on the ground unless he absolutely has to. But he can get along in the treetops with no trouble at all. He simply cannot be shaken loose. He just hooks those big claws of his over a branch and walks along, hanging from the under side. In other words, he is upside down all most all the time. I guess he isn't comfortable in any other position."

"Does he hang on with his tail, too?" inquired Bobby.

Scraper laughed right out. "Not so that you would notice it," said he. "He may have a tail, but if he has, I've never seen it."

"Has he got sharp teeth?" inquired Bobby.

Again Scraper chuckled. "No,"

Postal Display at Biltmore Wins Attention.

A poster display at the Biltmore is attracting attention of members of the Georgia Society of Colonial Dames, having been brought to Atlanta through organized efforts of Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, member of the patriotic service committee of the national society. The judges were Lorado Taft, sculptor; Max Mason, president of University of Chicago; John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist; David Osborne Hamilton, artist; Miss Charlotte R. Partridge, curator, Layton Art Gallery of Milwaukee.

The awards included: First prize, $300; second prize, $150; third prize, $50.00, and five honorable mentions. The first prize was won by Leon Friend, of New York; the second by Frank Sotter, of Toledo, Ohio, and the third was awarded to Miss Nancy Barnhart, of St. Louis, Mo. Those winning honorable mention were William R. Remington, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Zoltan Ledesteyer, of Erie, Pa.; Stirling Hills, of Baltimore, Md.; Earl Lapan, of Jacksonville, Fla., and E. Martin Allen, of Chicago.

The national society of the Colonial Dames of America cooperated with the bureau of education, department of the interior in its endeavor to promote literacy in the United States. To this end, the Colonial Dames secured a poster that will instantly arrest the eye and convey to illiterate as well as literate citizens the advantage and desirability of being able to read, write and speak the English language. To the mother, it should suggest a means of understanding of and cooperation with her children in school problems, of sharing with them the stories of this land of opportunity; to the father it should suggest the possibility of understanding American ideals and political problems, and the sports and activities of American school children, to the employed man and woman the increased opportunity afforded them in the ability to read published information relating to their lines of employment. The posters selected are suitable for distribution in every section of the United States and are greatly needed. It will be used in 20,000 centers; in settlements, factories, schools, at Ellis Island, on steamers, etc.

Ernest Hartsock Lectures Friday.

Ernest Hartsock, editor of "Bozart" and well-known Atlanta poet, will continue his lecture on "Contemporary American Poets" Friday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Douglas W. Cowles, 980 Rosedale road, before the literary group of the Atlanta branch, American Association of University Women. The subject for Mr. Hartsock's lecture will be the work of Sara Teasdale and Edna St. Vincent Millay, two of America's most famous living poets. He will discuss their lives and give carefully selected readings from their best poems.

Mr. Hartsock, whose lectures are much in demand, has recently been honored by invitations to lecture before the conclaves of the League of American Pen Women in Washington, D. C. The Oracle Poetry Forum in Boston, and the Labor Temple Poetry Forum in New York city. His literary activities in connection with the Bozart Press have prevented his acceptance of these invitations in distant cities. He is, however, available for local lectures under the management of the Bozart Press.

The Kle Club To Sponsor Dance.

The Kle club will sponsor a benefit dance at Segallo's hall Saturday evening April 14, from 9 to 12 o'clock. Music will be furnished by a well-known orchestra. Tickets will be $1 per couple. The club supports and educates a young girl and all money raised is used for charitable purposes.

Peace Resolution Adopted By Georgia Parent-Teachers

BY MAINER LEE TOLER.

Six hundred parents and teachers in attendance upon the Georgia State Parent-Teacher convention held in Atlanta for the past three days unanimously and enthusiastically indorsed a resolution at Thursday's session favoring the movement for the negotiation of treaties, or of a world treaty, condemning recourse to war for the settlement of international disputes and renouncing war as a solution for international disagreements or differences of whatever nature or origin. The resolution further requested that representatives of Georgia be called upon to devote their efforts toward meeting the demands of the world peoples for peace and pledged the cooperation of the Georgia branch P.T.A. with other organizations in their work for peace.

Other resolutions adopted by the state P.T.A. Thursday were that the parents and teachers of Georgia call upon the press to realize its responsibility to society in the dissemination of the vanities of criminals by publishing their pictures, detailing their lives or anything in reference to them except a bare narration of crime and court trial; that the Georgia P.T.A. cooperate with Mrs. George C. Ingram, of Dublin, Ga., secretary of the National Kindergarten association, in promoting the extension of kindergarten education through the enactment of a progressive kindergarten law, and that it urge its local branches to circulate petitions for kindergartens and interest editors to print in their newspapers the articles on "Home Education," issued free to the press by the association; that the Georgia P.T.A. indorse the invitation of Atlanta to bring the 1929 convention of the National Education association to Atlanta.

Mrs. Miller Elected.

Mrs. Joe Dan Miller, of Gainesville, was unanimously elected president of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers Thursday at the morning session. Other officers elected were Mrs. P. H. Jeter, of Decatur, as president of the state organization, who for the past two years has successfully directed the wide program sponsored by the Georgia branch of parents and teachers. Under Mrs. Jeter's administration the departments of organization, home service, extension, education, public welfare and health have made great strides with the cooperation of home and school showing splendid results for the welfare of Georgia's school children. Mrs. Miller is extremely well qualified to assume the duties as president of the state P.T.A. She has had wide experience in parent-teacher work, having for the past two years directed the home service department sponsored by state P.T.A. As director of this work, she conceived the idea of compiling a book that was recently published under the title of "P.T.A. Interpretations of Food." Mrs. Miller secured hundreds of contributions to the book, supplying the proper needs of life featuring health, thrift, efficiency and nutrition. Among celebrated contributors to the book book are Dr. Louise Stanley, Mrs. Calvin session were Dr. O. G. Brim, of the Ohio State university, who spoke on "Rural Education;" Mrs. T. N. Fulton, probation officer of DeKalb county, who took as her subject, "Juvenile Delinquency;" James Edward Rogers, director of physical education for the National P.T.A., who spoke on "The Place of Physical and Health Education in Our Public Schools," and Miss Ethel Perrin, of the American Child Health association. Splendid reports were made at Thursday's session by Mrs. Charles Hilburn, of Macon, director of the public welfare department, and Miss Katherine Dozier, of Gainesville, director of the department of health.

Resolutions of thanks and the presentation of new officers closed the three-day convention.

Among the interesting speakers who addressed the delegates at Thursday's Coolidge, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Clifford Walker, Miss Mary Brent Whiteside, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and many others.

Mrs. Miller occupies a distinct place in Georgia's civic, cultural and educational realms. She is a recognized authority on child welfare and possesses extreme executive ability. Under her leadership a continued progress of organized parent-teacher activities in Georgia is assured.

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Failure of improved weather reports to cause general or aggressive selling in the cotton market today promoted covering and early declines were followed by rallies. After selling off to 19.40, July advanced to 19.61 and closed at 19.58, compared with 19.55 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady, not unchanged to 7 points higher.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 2 to 3 points. Active months sold 7 to 9 points lower in early trading under liquidation combined with local and southern selling. Evidently this was motivated by the outlook for clearing weather with rising temperatures in the south and the belief that unfavorable crop features so far developed had been discounted by recent advances.

Liverpool Buyer. Liverpool was a considerable buyer here at the decline which had resulted in a widening of the differences between the two markets and after initial offerings had been absorbed, the volume of business tapered off. No doubt failure of the better weather to promote heavier offerings was a disappointment to recent sellers for a reaction, which led to covering, and the market acted as if the early buying had left it comparatively bare of contracts for the time being. Selling on the weather news possibly was restricted to some extent by uncertainty as to the showing of the census bureau report on domestic consumption for March, which is to be published at the opening tomorrow.

Opinions as to the probable figures ranged from about 500,000 bales up to 625,000, but the most general expectation seemed to be somewhat above 600,000 bales, and there may have been some buying on a belief that on such a report would receive a bullish interpretation.

May Sells Up. May sold up from 19.60 to 19.78 and October from 19.50 to 19.65, the relative steady ruling of May helping the tone of the general list. The close was a little off from the best under realizing.

Private cables said there had been London and continental buying in Liverpool on the strength of the market for Egyptian cotton, but that the turnover in cotton cloth was disappointing with Shanghai auctions unsatisfactory.

Port receipts were 7,783 bales.

UNITED STATES PORT STOCKS 1,644,750.

Exports 6,727, making 6,003,625 so far this season.

COTTON IS WITHOUT DEFINITE TREND.

New Orleans, La., April 12.—(AP)—Cotton prices were without a definite trend in today's slack trading with the stimulating influence of higher Liverpool cables and expectation of favorable March consumption being offset by more favorable weather in the belt. The general market closed steady at net gains of 1 to 5 points.

Little response was shown in the opening to better Liverpool cables than due that resulted mainly from a sharp advance in Egyptian futures both at Liverpool and Alexandria. Shortly thereafter old crop months ascended 2 to 3 points with the new positions remaining unchanged to 2 points higher after strengthening to levels 2 to 4 points above yesterday's close the market turned easier on selling prompted by favorable weather in the belt and a forecast of similar conditions in the west. Reactions followed with May trading down to 19.52, July 19.16 and October to 19.04, 6 to 11 points under the early highs and 6 to 9 points under yesterday's close. The decline was checked by covering.

Reports of a constant shrinkage in certificated stocks here and at Galveston and Houston, was a large factor in starting the market on the upgrade during the afternoon session. The climb was accelerated by anticipation of favorable domestic mill consumption figures which are to be issued tomorrow. May reached 19.48, July 19.16 and October 19.11. These prices proved to be the day's highest.

A wave of profit-taking swept the market near the close, leaving but a nominal gain for the day.

Exports today, 6,727 bales, making a total of 67,317 for the week, 5,921,804 since August 1, against 5,982,088 on the same date last year. Port receipts, 7,783 bales, making 7,617,236 since August 1. Port stocks 1,654,120.

Total bond sales (par value)

$15,512,000.

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Continued activity in the bond market was attended by numerous wide price movements, mostly toward higher ground. Some profit-taking developed, wiping out or reducing earlier gains, particularly in semi-speculative issues, which ordinarily follow the trend on the "big board."

Heavy trading was coincident with an unusually large volume of new offerings, much of which was promptly absorbed. The day's largest new issue, the $18,000,000 International Cement company, was reported oversub-scribed before opening. Time money and commercial paper rates showed no change.

The new St. Paul Pauli supplied the individual features, although all their 11-8 points gain before the close, while the best demonstration of the market's strength was shown in the closing hour, when the market closed at a new high of 99.70.

Among the rails, the best showing was made by St. Louis Southwestern

4s, Rock Island 4 1/2s and Chicago &

Eastern Illinois 5s. Seaboard issues showed a steady decline, with President Powell's preference for the road would have available $750,000 for interest for the first four months, against six months' need of $825,000.

Copper bonds and other convertibles sustained some substantial losses on profit-taking. Atlantic Express 4s reached a new high at 90 1/4 points, but lost about half the gain.

Italian issues led the foreign group.

Rome 6 1/2s, Milan 6 1/2s and some of the industrial issues reaching new

strong. Firmness was general in the foreign list.

The Famous "Wagon Box Fight"—VIII.

The Dismounted Attack.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

AFTER THE REFUSE OF THE FIRST WILD CHARGE OF THE SIOUX ON THE "WAGON BOX FIGHT," THE DISAPPOINTED RED CLOUD HELD A COUNCIL WITH HIS CHIEFS AND DECIDED UPON ANOTHER PLAN OF ATTACK. THIS TIME SEVEN HUNDRED INDIANS LED BY RED CLOUD'S NEPHEW ADVANCED ON FOOT TOWARD THE BARRICADE.

THE SIOUX, HAVING LEARNED TO FEAR THE DEADLY AIM OF THE TROOPERS, GREPT FORWARD CAUTIOUSLY AND WHEN WITHIN RANGE BEGAN TO RIDDLE THE CRUDE PORT WITH BULLETS AND FLAMING ARROWS. THE TROOPERS DID NOT REPLY AND MISLED BY THIS SILENCE, THE HOSTILES ATTEMPTED TO TAKE THE DEFENSE BY STORM.

WHEN THE INDIANS HAD ALMOST REACHED THE RING OF WAGON BODIES, THE WHITES OPENED FIRE WITH TELLING EFFECT. THE SIOUX STROVE TIME AND AGAIN TO CROSS THAT FLAMING BARRIER, BUT WERE HURLED BACK AND, AFTER LOSING MORE BRAVES THAN HAD FALLEN IN THE FIRST ASSAULT, FLED IN DESPERATE HASTE.

RED CLOUD'S NEPHEW, WHO LED THE CHARGE, LAY CLOSE TO THE BARRICADE, SLAIN BY POWELL. IN THE FORT, LIEUT. JENNINGS AND A PRIVATE HAD BEEN KILLED AND SEVERAL SOLDIERS BADLY WOUNDED.

TOMORROW—THE RESCUE.
